Maryland Gov. Glendening Visits Ag Showcase Day

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

FAIR HILL, Md. - Maryland's Gov. Parris Glendening made a surprise visit to the Ag Showcase Day at the Cecil County Fair Tuesday and told farmers that while he was making other stops in the county, the Ag Day stop was the most important because of the impact agriculture has on the state's economy. It was the first time a governor had visited the fair, as far as local farmers and officials could remember.

"Agriculture is most important in terms of the economy and what this means to our lifestyle," Glendening said. "This is our future, and it is the reason that working with the legislature, we got our Smart Growth program through and along with the Rural Legacy program, we will have $90 million over the next five years to purchase development rights so farmers can keep their investment in the land."

In response to a question posed by one Maryland farmer to this reporter earlier in the week, Glendening said he was aware of the local cluster zoning issue that has recently become controversial in Maryland. Cluster zoning allows more intensive development than one house per five acres. The idea is to contain the development in a smaller part of the developed property while a majority of the land remains open space.

But in the case of this farmer, who has sold the development rights to his farm, the proposed development of the adjoining farm will put the cluster of homes right beside his preserved farm, thus negating the real purpose of preserving the farm. In a discussion over lunch, Glendening said the new Smart (spot) Growth program will limit state funding for infrastructures to these projects such as building roads, sewers, and sidewalks and should help in these situations in the future.

The governor also announced that he planned to sign a letter to President Clinton and Ag Secretary Glickman Wednesday, to have Maryland declared a drought disaster area.

"This is an interesting challenge," Glendening said. "In some areas the crops are fairly good

Electric Deregulation Perspectives

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's plan for the deregulation of electrical power generation is a move that apparently had to be done, but how it plays out, and what it means to the agricultural and rural consumer is far from clear.

An informal roundtable discussion was held last week in Harrisburg in the Capitol Building to provide a forum to specifically address concerns of the agricultural, rural and agribusiness community in Pennsylvania.

The meeting, held as a variation of a public hearing of the Senate Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee, was requested and cosponsored by the Pennsylvania State Grange, whose members perhaps face the largest uncertainties and potential cost increases and loss of service.

A number of other groups and organizations attended: the chair-

Ag Horizons Educates Educators

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Information has doubled in the last eight years. To keep up with the new information and to sort out what's important is no easy task.

On Tuesday, Ag Horizons held its eighth annual conference to educate educators. The all-day seminar held at Harrisburg Area Community College focused on frontline issues facing Southeastern Pennsylvania and the expanding agricultural horizons.

Teachers, ag advisers, and extension leaders were some of the participants who heard about new technologies used to create new food items, about biotechnology to improve plants and animals, and about the vast network of computer information.

Dr. Roland Leach Jr., professor of poultry science of Penn State, shared his fascination with skeletal research in poultry and swine and how the findings are being translated into human studies.

"Biotechnology is defined as any technology that uses living organisms or processes to make or modify products, to improve plants or animals, or to develop microorganisms for specific use," Leach said.

While many people think of biotechnology as a new science, Leach said the concept dates back

New Holland Flock Has A.I. Vaccine Can't Be Used

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A flock of 60,000 pullets that was granted official approval to move out of the quarantine area to New Holland was announced as having avian influenza (A.I.) this week.

The flock met the test requirements for movement from the northern Lancaster County quarantine area to New Holland, in the eastern part of the county, but somehow may have already harbored the virus, according to Dr. Phil Debok, chief of the animal health division of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Animal Health.

Also, according to Debok, the A.I. vaccine was that was

Ag Progress Issue Next Week

Next week, Lancaster Farming's August 9 issue will pay special tribute to Ag Progress Days with field maps, schedules of events, new areas of interest, and messages from our advertisers. This event is Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences' showcase for research, education, and new technology in agriculture. More than 300 commercial exhibitors will also display their equipment and services to the public. You will want to make plans to meet with your fellow farmers at this large agriculture event at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rock Springs, August 12 to 14.

Delmarva Broiler

JULY 30, 1997

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was about moderate. Seller offerings were fully sufficient for current requirements. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights were mixed and irregular in full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules are moderately heavy. Less than truckloat asking prices were 60 to 74 74 cents. Trade sentiment was about steady. In the parts complex, breast items were generally held with increased confidance. Leg items were fully adequate to ample. Wings were readily available from most shippers.

National Egg Market

JULY 30, 1997

Prices were unchanged to lower. The market tone was steady on the smaller sizes and weak on larger sizes. Cartoned egg demand was light to moderate and loose egg demand was good into food service and resort areas. Supplies were seasonally tight for jumbos and adequate to ample for the balance. Breaking stock supplies were at least adequate for the moderate demand and finished product sales were slow. Spent hen supplies were usually adequate for current needs.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

JULY 25, 1997

Prices were higher. The market tone was fully steady to firm and had begun to settle by the end of the week. Demand remained irregular, was mostly moderate and centered on less-than-trucklot volumes. Shell egg supplies were tight to adequate with surplus light weight shell eggs routed into breaker channels. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending July 19, 1997 were 9% less than last week, and 8% less than the same week last year. Finished product floor stocks were adequate.

Fund selling on the board today pressured wheat bids lower. Corn bids jumped higher due to the warm temperatures over the weekend as traders are concerned yields could lessen. Soybean bids finished sharply lower as profit taking on the board began after two days of higher trends in the bean pits. Lack of new export sales also weighed on soybean bids. Wheat steady to 6 cents lower. Corn 1 to 6 cents higher. Sorghum 2 to 6 cents higher. Soybeans 12 to 43 cents lower. U.S. Export Sales: PURCHASER COMMODITY TONNAGE DEL DATE Nothing new to report. The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

AUGUST 4-10, 1997

SECRETARY OF EVERYTHING ELSE

Herbert Hoover, born on August 10, 1874, had served in the Cabinet under both Harding and Coolidge, becoming known not only as Secretary of Commerce but also as "Assistant Secretary of Everything Else." A recognized hard-worker and religious Quaker, Hoover had distinguished himself by organizing worldwide efforts for hunger victims during World War I, when he served as the American Food Administrator. Unfortunately, he was only eight months into his own term of presidency when the stock market crashed. Thenceforth, he became known for the Hoovervilles (shanty towns), Hoover blankets (newspapers), and Hoover flags (empty pockets) that sprang up.

Older men declare war.
– Herbert Clark Hoover

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Keep a highlighter pen by your phone book, and mark any number you're apt to look up again.

CORN FRITTERS

2 large eggs
2 cups cooked corn, scraped from cob (about 6 medium ears)
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon melted butter
1/4 cup oil (approximate)
maple syrup

Beat eggs Mix in corn, salt, flour, sugar, and melted butter. Heat the oil in a heavy skillet Drop batter into oil by spoonfuls (1 heaping tablespoon per fritter). Cook about 3 to 4 minutes per side, without crowding Serve with maple syrup

Makes about 18 small fritters.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

After Lammas (Aug. 1), corn ripens as much by night as by day.

Dry August and warm does harvest no harm.

Change In Direction Long Overdue

Of 900 species listed as endangered since the early 1970's when the Endangered Species Act was first enacted, only two have moved up the list out of danger. The endangered species issue is a very important one, and the world around us is diminished if a species vanishes. However, the way the implementation of the law has evolved has little to do with the purpose of the law when it was written.

We want to get endangered species off the list and recover them for the future, but we've got to do that in such a way that our economy can continue to thrive.

The expense of navigating broad environmental laws, as well as the bureaucracy and mandates of the endangered species act should not fall exclusively on the individual's shoulders.

What is especially revolting about this situation is how a particular species got on the list in the first place. Species have been placed on the list because some people wanted them on the list, not because there was data to support putting them there. This is wrong. Listing should be based on good science and data. And a definite process to remove a species from the endangered category should be established. If a species recovers to a predetermined benchmark, then it must be removed.

In a speech to the federal and state conservation officials and a broad audience from the nation's farm community, Dr. Jim Tate said one of the most glaring perversions to evolve from the current endangered species law is known in Texas as "shoot, shovel, and shut up." This means that rather than risk high-handed government interference, landowners simply destroy endangered species that otherwise might be saved. One of the selling points for property is that there are "no birds" on the land, referring to the absence of endangered species on that parcel compared to endangered species on other land that make it unmarketable.

There is some national legislation to be proposed in the near future that would address this issue and place guidelines on when a species is endangered and benchmarks to follow when it should be taken off the list. This criteria is to be based on scientific evidence. This makes a lot more sense than the way we are operating now.

Of course, there will be a lot of opposition from those who want to continue to regulate agriculture in a backhanded way. But the change in direction is long overdue.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Manage Alfalfa Fields

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, reports that he has seen many alfalfa fields looking extremely bad. The dry weather did not allow the alfalfa to grow very tall. However, the biggest problem is the potato leafhopper which is feeding heavily on alfalfa. When the leafhopper feeds it injects a toxin into the alfalfa plant that plugs the plant'svascular system. This stops the flow of water and nutrients within the plant. Fields where the leafhopper have been controlled are short but green in color. Once an alfalfa field shows signs of leafhopper feeding it must be mowed to get the plant functioning again. Fields that are showing yellowing or "leafhopper burn" need to be mowed and then sprayed with an insecticide. If the field has begun to bloom, it will not add height, it will only loose feeding value. These fields should be harvested immediately. If the alfalfa is too short to bale, it should be clipped and the stubble sprayed for leafhoppers

To Harvest Silage to Optimize Quantity and Quality

Even with recent rains, this summer's drought may have lasted too long to expect great things of corn and other crops, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent. The decision to harvest silage should reflect 1. the potential the field has for recovery, 2. the moisture content of the crop and 3. any yield losses which could be expected due to the loss of lower leaves. As we get later into the growing season, the likelihood of yield increases due to late season rains diminishes rapidly.

Corn and other plants quickly looses its ability to maintain leaves. Drought stress causes a high rate of abortion of kernels further limiting plants ability to recover from drought. Consider harvesting drought crops as soon as the moisture content of the whole plant is in the range of good storage.

To Be Aware of Silo Gases

A dry season, like we are having, increase the danger of silo gas. This deadly gas from fermenting forage can make filling silos particularly dangerous during dry weather, according to Penn State safety specialist, Dr. Dennis Murphy. Silo gas or nitrogen dioxide can cause severe irritation to the nose and throat and may lead to an inflammation of the lungs. It can cause unconsciousness or death especially in the first 12 to 72 hours after filling the silo. Silo gas is heavier than air. It tends to accumulate just above the silage in the silo. It has a strong bleach like odor and appears as a low lying yellow, red or dark brown gas. The gas may flow down thechute and collect in the feed room or other areas near the base of the silo. To prevent silo gas poisoning, provide good ventilation in and around the silo when silage is fermenting. Keep the door between the barn and feed room and silo closed. Keep children out of the area.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "There is little difference in people, but that little difference makes a big difference. That little difference is attitude. The big difference is whether it is positive or negative."

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 5:11 through 6:12
Devotional Reading:
Hebrews 6:13-20

Our text for this week is one example of where we could easily "miss the forest for the trees."

It can be a very confusing and frustrating passage. We're not certain the writer means to say what it sometimes seems he is saying. For example, in Hebrews 6: 1,2 he seems to imply that the "first principles" of Christianity are "repentance from dead works and of faith toward God, with instruction about ablutions, the laying on of hands, the resurrection of the dead, and eternal judgment." Note that he does not mention the Lord's Supper, the Holy Spirit or the atoning sacrifice of Christ—all of which we would include as part of the "first principles." So what does he mean here?

Another troubling passage here is his assertion that those who commit apostasy—a rejection of God or the Church—cannot possibly be restored through repentance. Is this an "impossibility" because God will not accept the apostate's repentance or because the apostate's heart has been hardened to the point that repentance is impossible?.

These are just two of the problems that occur in this brief selection from Hebrews and the problem is that, if we become bogged down in these perplexing questions, we may very well miss what is of primary value for us as Christians today. Regardless how we solve the problems noted above or interpret what Hebrews is saying, there seems to be little doubt that he is telling us here to 'Grow up!'

And that is a very relevant and timely message for us today!

WHERE YOU GOT IN

The writer of Hebrews says his readers have "become dull of hearing" (5:11) and later warns them against becoming "sluggish" (6:12). He is concerned, not because they have become blatantly immoral or heretical, but because they have simply become inattentive. They are in danger of God's judgment because of the complacency and indifference that characterizes their relationship with God in Christ.

I'm afraid that diagnosis fits all too many of us. We're like the little boy who fell out of bed one night with a loud crash. To his anxious parents he explained: "I guess I fell asleep too close to where I got in." Many of us have fallen asleep too close to where we entered life in Christ!

Do you remember when you first started school? How much more do you know now? 100%? 200%? 500%? Or think back to when you began to learn to play tennis or golf. How much have you grown in your understanding of the sport and your skill?

Now, think of the level at which you became a Christian. Have you grown or matured in your discipleship? Is your faith stronger or the same? Is your capacity for love greater or is it still pretty much at the same level? Has there been growth since you began following Christ? Enough?

NOT 'HOW LONG?; BUT 'HOW MUCH?'

A certain teacher at a private boys' school was passed over for promotion when a vacancy occurred in his department. "How could you ignore my 20 years of experience here" he demanded of the headmaster. "Actually," the headmaster replied, "you haven't had 20 years of experience—just the same year of experience twenty times over." That's also true of us. The question is not how many years have we been following Christ but how much have we grown in that experience?

I hope this doesn't come as a shock to you but we are not simply called to become Christians and to join the Church! What we are called to do is continue to grow to Christian maturity. I may not be able to spell out just exactly where "Christian maturity" is for you, but I do know that it is considerably beyond where a lot of us find ourselves.

Is your Christian walk and talk that of a mature follower of Jesus or are you still a babe in Christ? And If you answer is the latter, then the next question you need to ask yourself is "Why?"

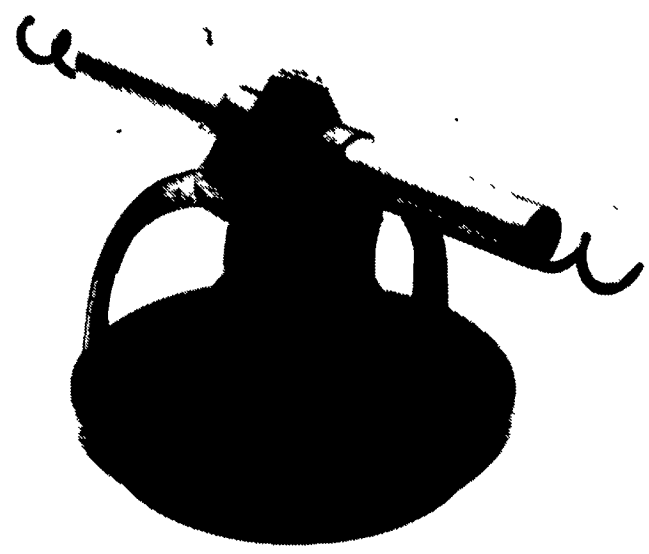
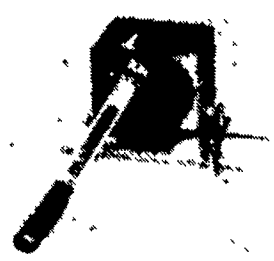
THE BIG DUTCHMAN UNI GROW 360 Broiler Feeding System

Proven To Reduce Labor Costs And Easier To Feed Chicks As They Grow!





You can quickly and easily adjust the feed level as often as you like.

This special winch enables simultaneous feed level adjustment of a line of UniGROW360 pans with a simple turn of the crank. Unlike other systems, it is not dependent upon level floors.

Calif., Midwest milk flow steady as temps cool

By Lisa Wheeler, Bridge News

New York--Jly 31--In California, where milk continues to flow in large quantities, an unseasonal surplus of milk is being converted into cheese and nonfat dry milk as quickly as possible to prevent falling milk prices.

In the Midwest, milk production is steady and slowly picking up as toasty temperatures are not hot enough to sustain any damaging heat to livestock.

Milk prices have fallen slightly in the last several weeks in regions of California, while prices in the Midwest remain fairly steady, brokers said.

One broker said that normally 100 degree weather in the San Joaquin Valley has been cooler this season, allowing cows to produce more. Some dairy cows were off their cycle last year due to the heat there and that has caused them to freshen late this year, the broker said.

Crops, however, may not be that lucky. Brokers said there is some concern that crops may be scorched in the summer months, despite talk that second-crop hay harvest will be bumper.

According to Bridge Global Weather Services, a change in weather patterns has apparently occurred in much of the Midwest corn and soybean belt as well as the far northern Plains where soil

Core Named National Dairy Shrine Guest Of Honor

COLUMBUS, OH — Maurice E. Core, Columbus, Ohio, has been named 1997 National Dairy Shrine Guest of Honor. One of the most prestigious awards in the dairy industry, it will be presented to Core at the annual National Dairy Shrine awards banquet on October 2, 1997 in Madison, Wisconsin in conjunction with the World Dairy Expo.

Core's entire life has been devoted to the dairy industry. He has been a longtime employee of the American Jersey Cattle Association and supporter of the dairy industry.

Growing up on a Jersey farm near Indianola, Iowa, Core attended Simpson College and Iowa State University graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in agriculture.

Following graduation, he was herdsman for the Jersey and Guernsey herds at Curtiss Candy Farms, Cary, Illinois.

His next position kicked off a 37 year career with the American Jersey Cattle Association. He began as Field Representative covering eight midwestern states. He also served as Special Representative coordinating the All American; Executive Assistant responsible for the Jersey Journal, Youth Programs, All American and Jersey Marketing Service. His career culminated as the Association Executive Secretary and President of All-Jersey Sales Corporation.

During his tenure at Jersey, Core was the first coordinator of Jersey Marketing Service (JMS). In 1976 JMS managed the National Jersey Heifer Sale and the following year they also managed the All American Jersey Sale. The growth and success of JMS has led many dairy leaders to label it the most successful dairy breed association marketing service developed to date.

Core has served in many leadership positions within the dairy industry, including director of the National Purebred Dairy Cattle Association and Council on Dairy Cattle Breeding; member of the Dairy Advisory Committee for the North American International Livestock Exposition and Ohio State University Dairy Science Department, and Past President of National Dairy Shrine.

Core and his wife Carole have three children; Cinthia Rowley and David Core, who reside in Columbus, Ohio and Sharin Adkins of Orient, Ohio.

Bair Speaks For Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — N. Alan Bair, director of dairy industry relations for The Pennsylvania State University's College of Agricultural Sciences, testified this week before the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry on the efforts of the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders to continue the viability of the Pennsylvania dairy industry.

"Our focus has continued to be the profitability of dairy farms," Bair said. "The price volatility which the industry is currently experiencing is one component of the overall economic reality on dairy farms." The purpose of the hearing was to receive testimony regarding the agricultural commodity price volatilty.

He added that the Stakeholders, through task forces, will address both educational and motivational needs of producers. "Economic forces in the dairy industry are creating a constant need for change by dairy producers. Risk management will be just one of many skills dairy farm business owners need to succeed."

Bair told the committee that the leadership role of government should include developing world markets for dairy products, continuing to support Cooperative Extension and agricultural research and encouraging the partnership of industry, education and government. He testified at the Senate hearing at the invitation of U.S. Senator Rick Santorum.

"The Dairy Stakeholders are committed to making positive things happen within the dairy industry," Bair said. One current initiative is helping non-agricultural audiences recognize the economic importance of the dairy indsutry to local, regional and state economies.

Pennsylvania's dairy industry represents 38 percent of the state's agricultural economy. Pennsylvania is the fourth largest dairy state in the country.

DAIRY WEEK

DAIRY MARKET PRICE COMMENTARY

moisture is now below average.

Drying conditions were accelerated by last week's heat wave and many crops are now being stressed and need significant rain to protect production and grain quality.

The physical butter market remains quiet with enough butter supplies available. Buyers are waiting for prices to fall before they enter the market, and sellers are on the sidelines waiting for higher prices.

A broker said there was ample butter exports to the international market, which could begin to build support under the US market.

Non-fat dry milk prices have begun to slump on rising inventories around the country.

FUTURES AND CASH PRICES

CSCE raw milk Aug futures rose strongly on Wednesday. Aug rose 30 cents to $14.23/cwt, while Oct rose 32c to $14.80c.

CSCE BFP milk futures were heavily traded on Wednesday in mixed trading. Jly fell 5c to $11.10, Aug rose 1c to $12.09 and Sep fell 5c to $12.30.

On Wednesday, CSCE BFP milk open interest fell 3 lots to 1,440 as investors liquidate out of the Jly contract which will expire next week.

Jly open interest was down 2 lots at 209 and Aug was strong at 490, unchanged from Tuesday.

Butter open interest fell 4 lots to 172, while raw milk rose 2 lots to 41 in mild trading. Non-fat dry milk was unchanged at 68 lots and cheddar cheese was unchanged at 19 lots.

CSCE Aug nonfat dry milk fell 30 points on Wednesday to 106.00c, while Oct was steady at 107.50c. Cheddar cheese futures traded steady to slightly lower also on rising inventories. Aug fell 50 points to 127.50c, while Oct was steady at 133.00c.

At the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, BFP milk futures were steady to lower on Wednesday. Jly was steady at $11.08, while Aug fell 7c to $12.03, after falling gradually in the last week.

CME grade AA butter futures were steady at 110.50c, basis Sep, on Wednesday, while Nov was unchanged at 95.25c.

CME BFP open interest fell 5 lots to 125 on 25 lots of volume. There were still 8 lots of open interest in the Jly contract with 21 lots in Aug.

FEED GRAINS

Producers in many Midwestern regions are holding back on sales in hopes that the forecasts for continued dry conditions will raise corn and soybean values further.

Forecasts continue to call for lackluster showers and dry conditions in the US Midwest, which have producers believing that if they sit on their product for a little bit longer, their profits may grow.

Some stations reported that farmers are moving wheat out of their bins to make room for the soybean harvest, but no aggressive wheat selling was seen.

Boyer Family Wins York Holstein

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — It was two for two at the York County Holstein Show, as Sunnybend Tangelo Counselor claimed her second-in-a-row championship over the annual county competition, held July 16 at the York Fairgrounds.

The senior three-year-old, also named best bred and owned, as in the show string of Tom and June Boyer's Sunnybend Farms, York. She freshened last year right at two years of age and earned a Very-Good 88 score on her first classification. While claiming several awards on the show circuit, the stylish heifer also tallied up a 365-day first lactation of more than 28,000 pounds of milk production. She is owned by Bridgette Boyer Bortner and bred from of a line of 4-H and open class winners.

Reserve champion honors stayed in the same age class, going to the second-placed senior three-year-old, Dar-Dale Russ Robin. She was bred and exhibited by Dar-Dale Farm, owned by the Dale and Darla Doll family, Glen Rock. Unscored as a heifer, she produced a first lactation of 18,000 milk and is projected at over 20,000 in her second lactation. The reserve champion further was the anchor for the Doll's first-place win in the prestigious Best Three Females, bred and owned, lineup.

In announcing his selections, judge and Maryland Holstein breeder Chris Hill praised the pairs' powerful front ends and beautiful udders. Judge Hill also noted a championship honorable mention to the first-place senior two-year-old, Walk-Le Encore Amy, exhibited by Walk-Le Holsteins, Thomasville.

Both the Doll and Boyer families were again summoned together into the show ring at the close of the show, when they tied for the Premier Breeder banners. Premier Exhibitor points also tallied to a tie, with the banner honors shared by the Dolls and the Leroy and Brenda Walker family's Walk-Le Holsteins.

Junior champion honors went to JCY April Starbuck ET, a powerful, stylish spring yearling shown by youth exhibitor Amy Trimmer, East Berlin. Reserve junior champion, and best junior animal bred and owned, was Beshore Polo Stephanie, the fall calf exhibited by Beshore Farms, New Cumberland.

One of the most crowd-popular awards of the annual show went to seven-year-old KC Beshore, who walked off with first place in the Kiddie Class. KC is the son of Beshore Farms owners, Jed and Sue Beshore, and a veteran of the Kiddie Class competition. Other Kiddie Class winners included Stevie Greek, Frankie Greek, Cameron Knight, Amanda Thompson, Kelly Johnson and Jeremy Greek.

Spring Calf: 1. Coredale Broker Cutie, Cory Thompson; 2. Woodbine Farm; 3. Sunnybend Farm.

Winter Calf: 1. L & J Dandy Nina, Kathleen Doll; 2. Dar-Dale Farm; 3. Walk-Le Holsteins

Holstein, Brown Swiss Share York 4-H Dairy Supreme Honors

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — "Outstanding breed winners" was the description pooled by York 4-H Dairy Show judges Paul King, West Virginia, and Wayne Stiles, Maryland, as they surveyed the lineup of champions gathered in the York Fairgrounds livestock arena July 15 for the crowning of the supreme champion.

"Let longevity take its advantage," said judge King as he awarded the supreme champion overall title to the aged cow Holstein winner exhibited by East Berlin 4-H'er Amy Trimmer. Gentle-Touch S. Wind Rebecca, a 6-year-old, is scored VG-88 with a lifetime production of over 110,000 pounds of milk. Her current lactation is projected to be completed with over 30,000 pounds production.

Placing a "close second" in the supreme contention was the stylish young Brown Swiss champion, exhibited by Josh Hushon, Delta. Brothers Three Nutty Buddy is a junior three-year-old, also scored VG-88 and completed her first lactation with 18,600 pounds. She was a 1996 Junior All-American two-year-old and nominated for All-American honors.

In the Ayrshire breed runoffs, veteran 4-H'er Jason Stambaugh, East Berlin, claimed senior and grand champion ribbons with Do-Sher Astro Anne, the winning senior three-year-old entry. Reserve honors went to Anchor-Mere T Alta, the four-year-old entry of Stephanie Pomraning, Delta. Champion bred and owned was Triple-J Value Julie, a five-year-old of Jason Stambaugh.

Ayrshire junior champions were the pair of winning fall calves. Jamie Welsh, East Berlin, took the top heifer honor with Masonic Homes Rulers Gypsy, over the reserve and best junior bred and owned, My-T Sailor's Callie, exhibited by Delta 4-H'er Stephanie Pomraning.

In addition to his supreme bred and owned Brown Swiss, Josh Hushon made a clean sweep of the breed honors. The Delta 4-H member claimed reserve senior and grand champion breed titles with his five-year-old Lake Lane Pebbles. Junior champion was his fall calf, Top Acres Leverage Lillian, over the reserve champion, spring yearling Brothers Three Nutrageous.

Supreme champion overall at the York 4-H Dairy Roundup was the Holstein aged cow, Gentle Touch Wind Rebecca, exhibited by Amy Trimmer. Presenting the award was dairy princess Amanda Daugherty.

The title of supreme champion bred and owned at the York County 4-H Dairy Roundup went to Josh Hushon and his Brown Swiss 3-year-old, Brothers Three Nutty Buddy.

Junior 4-H member Terri Johnson, York, topped the Guernsey breed show, taking senior and grand champion with Rutter Bros Perfectos Lydia. In the reserve senior and grand spot was Romellas Nobility Brownie, the senior three-year-old exhibited by Kimberly Pomraning of Delta.

Terri Johnson also took the junior champion rosette, with winter yearling Rutter Bros Magics Wendy. Kimberly Pomraning's spring yearling, Cedar Fringed Butterrum, was the reserve champion heifer.

Standing senior and grand reserve in the Holstein show to Amy Trimmer's overall supreme was Greg Walker, Thomasville, with senior two-year-old Walk-Le Encore Amy. Walker also exhibited the best bred and owned Holstein, four-year-old Walk-Le KQ Misty.

Amy Trimmer added the Holstein junior champion win to her collection of awards, with spring yearling J.C.Y. April Starbuck-ET. Reserve honors went to Airville junior 4-H'er Shane Hall, exhibiting the winning fall calf, Woodbine Starbuck Eva.

In the Jersey breed contention, Suzann Pomraning finished in the grand and reserve champion spot with Franken Theodore Lilli, a senior two-year-old. Reserve

Buffalo Chase In Pequea Valley

Editor's Note: Sam S. Stoltzfus, Gordonville, sent this humorous story in hopes it will help locate the one still at large.

LEACOCK TWP (Lancaster Co.) — Buffalo on the loose in eastern Lancaster County? Yes siree, 12 of them, 750-pound bison bulls, roamed over Salisbury Twp. and beyond in the Welsh Mt. foothills, they did. Some for over eight weeks. One still at large as of July 26.

Seems there was this Jake Stoltzfus of Leacock Twp, an Amish cattleman, an enterpriser, and the practical republican he is, decided to try a new venture, fatten buffalo bulls. Since the fat cattle market is as low as a sick steer's nose, Jake decided to try his hand at producing buffalo steak. And another reason: Jake had just purchased a nice farm along Plank Road in the White Horse hinterlands. So the thought came, run buffalo in the large meadow through which the Pequea Creek flowed, thus cheap buffalo grazing.

With lots of Lancaster County sunshine and plenty of Pequea Punch (water) said bison would soon be as docile as fat steers, so Jake thought. Das vor letz (That was wrong).

Jake purchased these 12 black buffalo from a Richard Coy of Somerset County. They came to their Plank Road address in late April, and they just loved it, romping in the meadow, a drinking from the creek, behaving like fenced in bovines should.

Then on that historical day, May 3, one of the critters found an escape route, where the fence crossed the creek. Quickly in buffalo lingo, he informed the rest of the clan, and they're off, tails in the air, a snorting through the vast Pequea plains. Dat gain see (there they go). Maybe hoping to get to their ancestors' birthplace 1,500 miles west.

And romp and roam they did through young corn, lush alfalfa, ripping through fences like they were spider webs, tore cross tobacco patches, got into gardens, and splattered up front lawns, Mach dee frau base. (making the wife mad.)

And they got into pastures wit Holstein heifers; call it buffalo blind dates. Time will tell, should there be offsprings, would they be called Bufasteins?

There's no instructions in the township code book about how to catch buffalo; not yet, but the word was out. If you see a shaggy buffalo, call Jake Stoltzfus pronto. Provided he hears his fern sprechen (telephone) ring, he'll call Sam Kingsinger and the chase is on. Sam Kingsinger will grab his trusty dart carbine, call his pickup truck driver, Al Workman, and kimbo savy away, off to Pequea Valley happy hunting grounds.

Not since Henry Lapp's 180 hp tractor ran off and dashed two miles cross country, finally plowed into Ike Deiner's barn, was there such excitement in the unter beckway (lower Pequea) so us Amish call it. Sam and Al would drive to the buffalo area, carefully stalk the critter from downwind, to within 50 yards, take careful aim and zing.

If he hit, said buffalo would take off and the chase was on. Pickup truck and crew dashed after the beast through fields and lawns till the tranquilizer took effect, the beast turned turtle, then the crew would truss him up and four or five hefty men would throw the sleeping bison on the pickup bed and dash back to its Plank Road meadow, quick untie it before it comes to. Nach eins funga (caught another one).

Farmers plant their crops, spray for weeds, cultivate and watch them grow, and they take a dim view of any man or beast that treads there upon. So these buffalo ripping through the fields were mighty unpopular. Henry Lapp, another practical republican, says, "If I see one, I'll shoot it with my 30-30. And it will roam no more."

For 10 weeks, Jake Stoltzfus (little Jake in Amish circles) and his crew chased these critters, catching them one by one. One was caught the first day, two the next day (Sunday), several a week later, and finally all but one, which is still at large.

In the old days there were two Amish cowboys who had trained cow ponies, could rope like western cattlemen. Leroy Esh and his trusty steed Queen, along with his hired man, Elam Zook, on his mount Maple, could rope heifers at a dead gallop. Once down in Nine Points, a farmer's 15 heifers went wild, roamed Bart and Colerain Twps. for days. Leroy and Elam roped them all. Some Lancaster Stockyard professional horsemen that were called out, gave up the first day.

But today, Leroy and Elam are both gray-haired and their horses are gone. They don't take to roping anymore. So Jake Stoltzfus and his buffalo catching hands, Sam Kingsinger and Marvin Workman, had to do as they could for weeks while the buffalo crashed through the hinterlands, growing wilder and more feisty. One was shot three times, but into the woods he'd go, and no one could find him, and the beast got away again. Con mich net funga (Can't catch me).

Not since Revolutionary War soldiers roamed the Compass area and were fed in the Welsh Mountain foothills where Ben Alleygeyer lived during Washington's Valley Forge campaign, was there such a commotion in the unter beckway (lower Pequea). So the word is out. Watch and look for the buffalo. Perhaps he is still at large, or perhaps he's gift wrapped and stacked in someone's freezer. Vo iss er (Where is he)? Mystery of the lost Pequea buffalo?

Muller Elected VP American Dairy Science Association

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dr. Larry Muller, Professor of Dairy Science at Penn State, was recently elected Vice President of the American Dairy Science Association (ADSA). The results of the election were announced at the recent ADSA annual meeting in Guelph, Ontario. Muller will move up to president at the 1998 meeting of ADSA.

The American Dairy Science Association is the Professional Society for Dairy Science and is organized as a scientific and educational association to serve the dairy industry. Total membership is over 5400 and 1000 institutional members and nearly 800 International members from over 40 countries.

Muller has been a faculty member in Dairy Science at Penn State for over 20 years. He has taught courses in dairy nutrition and management, advised students, and co-advised the Dairy Science Club. His research has focused on dairy nutrition and management with a recent focus on grazing systems with dairy cattle. In addition, Muller has been involved with many extension and dairy industry programs.

Muller has been a member of ADSA for over 30 years and served on over 15 different committees. He had previously completed a three year term as Director of the production division.

Chester Holstein Field Day Set

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — The Chester County Holstein Club will hold its annual Field Day on Tuesday, August 19 at Har-Len Holsteins, the farm of Harold and Glenn Ranck, Route 926, Cochranville. This eight-five cow registered Holstein herd includes an Excellent daughter sired by Likabul and thirteen Very Good cows, including an eighty-nine point Cleitus.

Activities will begin at 10:00 a.m. with three classes to be judged. Judging prizes will be awarded in men's, women's, and youth categories. Official judge will be John Frey of Genex.

Following a chicken barbecue lunch, Mark Zusik, Regional Organizational Director for Pa. Farm Bureau will be guest speaker.

A registered Holstein calf will be awarded to a youth between the ages of six and sixteen who attends Field Day. The calf to be awarded is a Luke daughter from a Mascot dam with 25,000 pounds of milk as a two-year old. The calf comes from the herd of John St. John and family.

Lunch prices are: $4 for adults; $2 for children ages 4 to 10; and children 3 and under are free. Please make reservations by Monday, August 11 with: Rod Bare 593-7084, Bob Hewitt 495-7927; or Jane Pepple 932-3975.

To locate the Ranck farm, go south on Route 10 from Cochranville three and one-half miles to Route 926; turn left on Route 926; first farm on the right.

Please bring lawn chairs. All interested dairymen and families are invited to attend.

approved for production still was not officially approved for use in flocks. Last week the state ag department announced the availability of some of the four million doses of the vaccine would be developed and stockpiled for possible uses if the virus continues to spread.

Debok noted that the use of the vaccine would be one of the "important tools that's missing for control of this" problem. A reasonably effective vaccine is "one of the important tools that's missing for control" of A.I., he said.

A.I. now has spread outside the quarantine area. What has the industry so concerned is that the New Holland flock is away from the quarantined area, and there was no confirmation as of presstime early Friday morning whether the flock would be destroyed.

On Thursday Debok noted that a backyard flock of approximately 150 birds within the quarantine area in northern Lancaster County was under suspicion by the bureau of animal health, but not confirmed positive for A.I. as of presstime.

Last week live poultry exhibits at agricultural fairs in nine counties were cancelled by the ag department, including Berks, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Montgomery, Schuylkill, and York. Debok noted there was concern by the industry that the fairs could promote the spread of A.I. to other parts of the region.

The industry "is doing as much as they can in terms of biosecurity," Debok said. The poultry health committee continued with its series of weekly meetings at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center early Friday morning.

Debok said the department and industry is still looking, through the test flock with A.I., at ways in which the virus is spread, but can't confirm it's from wind, feathers, dust, birds, flies, or any combination of these things. "It's difficult to pin down, for sure," he said.

More Than 150 Entries Exhibited At Troy Fair Protein Breeds Show

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford County) —

More than 150 entries representing five breeds were shown at the Troy Fair Open Protein Breeds Show Thursday, July 24.

Judge John Burkett of East Freedom sorted through the animals to name the champions in each breed.

In the Jersey ring, Nobledale Farm of Gillett rose to the top as they were named both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor of the show. In addition, Nobles also exhibited the grand champion, Nobledale Homestead Brenda, and aged cow, and the reserve grand champion of the show, 3-year-old Nobledale Fiddle Corrin.

Named junior champion of the Jersey show was Christine Eick's Windy Acres Glen Cassidy. The reserve junior champion was Elm Brook Aerostar Velvet, owned by Blair and Cammy Yurkanin.

In the Ayrshire ring, Locust Lane Farm captured both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners.

Taking grand champion Ayrshire was Brian Sharer's Bonnieshade JJ Clover, a 5 year old. The reserve champion Ayrshire was Amberleigh Yurkanin's Laneway Festival's November. Among the heifers, Samantha Hillyard's Palmyra L.H. Fern was named the junior champion while Melissa Hillyard's BEKA Super Die's Decca was named the reserve junior champion.

In the Brown Swiss Show, Heather Yurkanin's Elm Brook Trouba Paisley was named the grand champion, while Michael Cole's Victory Acres Legacy Alisi was named the reserve grand champion. A pair of spring calves took the junior and reserve junior champion positions. First was Elm Brook Signa Jarine, owned by Richard Spencer, and in the reserve spot was Elm Brook Signature Gifted, owned by John Yurkanin Jr.

Taking grand champion honors in the Milking Shorthorn show was Samuel Cole's Summit Vista Cheri Dumplin. His heifer, Summit Vista Admiral Monica, was named the junior champion and the reserve grand champion.

A list of the top three winners in each class follows:

National Brown Swiss Convention

BSCBA Honors Junior Members

BELOIT, Wis. — The Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association recently honored some of its junior members during its annual convention in Cleveland, Ohio.

Two years ago, the BSCBA created an annual contest to select a youth to serve as a role model for other youth involved with Brown Swiss cattle and as a spokeperson for the association and the dairy industry.

The position is called the National Brown Swiss ambassador. This years, the recipient of the honor is Jonathan Ronald Fisher, son of Bryant and Marilee Fisher of Yantis, Texas.

There were two runnersup — Larissa Mellot, of St. Thomas, Pennsylvania, daughter of Gregory and Rhonda Mellott; and Venessa Johnson, of Oak Grove, Arkansas, daughter of Joe and Vickie Johnson.

Fisher, who prefers to be called, "J.R.," has been a junior member of the Brown Swiss Association for 15 years, holding the offices of president and secretary of the national Junior Association.

He was the 1995 District VIII youth achievement winner, and he had a 1994 Junior Bell Ringer, and several cheese yield and production award winners.

A high school senior, his plans include pursuing a college degree in dairy science.

Runnerup Mellott has been a junior member for nine years, and was the 1993 District II youth achievement winner. She is a dairy science student at Delaware Valley College, and continues to work on her family's La-Mel-Lo Farm. She plans to pursue a career in agricultural communications.

Runnerup Johnson has been a junior member for eight years. She is the farm manager of her family's Triple J dairy farm where she oversees the care of 60 head of cattle. A high school student, her plans are to pursue a career in veterinary medicine.

National Achievement

Also recongized during the convention were the 1996 district and national youth achievement winners.

Jeremy Daubert, 18, of McElhattan, Pennsylvania, was honored as the 1996 national youth achievement winner. Daubert, son of Dean and Brenda Daubert, currently owns 16 registered Brown Swiss. His cattle earned him three Pennsylvania State Bell Ringer awards and two reserve honors, as well as the 1996 Pennsylvania Brown Swiss Futurity.

A 4-Her for 11 years, Daubert served as the 1995 state 4-H ambassador, and was a member of the planning committee for the first annual Pennsylvania Junior All-Breeds Convention, held in 1996. He is currently pursuing a dairy science degree at Virginia Tech.

Cheese Yield

In a repeat performance, Niermans Jinx Pammi, owned by Shanna Lea Smith, of Woodsboro, Md., was the winner of the annual cheese yield award and youth production awards.

Pammi produced a new cheese yield record of 418.85 pounds of cheddar, breaking her national 1995 record by more than 18 pounds.

The production award is calculated based on the deviation of an animal's record compared to the rolling herd average, with the owner of the cow with the highest deviation receiving the award.

The cheese yield contest is based on the highest production during a 30-day period.

Quiz Bowl

The top 1997 national Brown Swiss quiz bowl team was comprised of four youth from different states.

Out of the 11 teams competing, the winning team consisted of members Robert Sigler, Middletown, Maryland; Kevin Michalovich, Lakeville, Ohio; Abby Rinehart, Wapakoneta, Ohio; and Katie Voelker, Perryville, Missouri.

Scholarship Winners

Two youth were selected as recipients of this year's national Brown Swiss scholarships.

Nick Uglow, of Watertown, Wisconsin, a dairy science student at University of Wisconsin at Madison, and Kathi Jo Brown, Monroe, Wisconsin, a freshman at Blackhawk Technical College, Janesville, Wisconsin, both received $1,000 scholarships toward their educational goals.

Uglow currently owns 13 registered Brown Swiss and has participated in youth cheese yield and production contests, as well as Bell Ringer and achievement contests. He is a member of the college football team and the Badger Dairy Club.

Brown is pursuing a degree in marketing and advertising and said she intends to use her education to promote the Brown Swiss breed. She has been involved in the national association and her state association, in cheese yield and production contests, and has served as vice president of the Junior Brown Swiss Association.

Scholarship eligibility includes having been a member of the national junior association for at least three years, and be pursuing higher education in an agricultural or dairy related field.

Other Activities

The theme for the 16th annual fun auction was, "Rock 'n Rolling with the Big Brown Cow," and attendees dressed in the styles of the 1950s and '60s.

The top selling item among all those donated for the fun acution was a painting of "Terri," the Brown Swiss cow, by Jeanne Truman, of Hutchinson, Minnesota.

It was purchased for $1,050 by Oak Spring Dairy of Upperville, Virginia.

The second highest selling item was a wooden trunk decorated with a painting of Brown Swiss cows on pasture, donated by the Ohio Brown Swiss Association.

Doug Kuhn, Shelbyville, Indiana, purchased it for $900.

The sale and donations totalled $9,575 with proceeds going to the national youth fund, to support national-level junior activities.

$11,300 Tops National Brown Swiss Sale

BELOIT, Wis. — As Brown Swiss breeders and enthusiasts gathered in Cleveland for the Ohio National Convention Sale on July 12, breeders took the theme of the convention seriously.

Numerous Brown Swiss breeders and dairymen "took a Swiss break by the lake" in order to purchase some of the high-quality Swiss cattle that were being offered. Averaging $3,366 on 61 lots, the sale proved to be a success for American and foreign participants.

Topping the sale at $11,300 was Blessing PR Shirlan purchased by Kenny Joe Manion of Scottsville, Kentucky.

"Shirlan" was the 1996 honorable mention All-American junior 3-year-old and received an All-American nomination as a junior 2-year-old. Her dam, Blessing Kohl Shirley scored "3E," has records to 26,330M 4.4% 1,148F 3.8% 1,002P at 6-07 in 365 days. The "2E" grandam has numerous records over 20,000M. "Shirlan" was consigned by Dean Engleman of Jansen, Nebraska.

Hill-N-Dale Ensign Sue ET, consigned by James Cunningham and Family of Warsaw, Ohio, sold for $10,400 to Kenny Joe Mainon of Scottsville, Kentucky.

"Sue" is sired by R Hart Simon Ensign ET. Her "2E92" dam, Hill-N-Dale Jade Sarah, has records to 18,940M 3.9% 724F 3.7% 704P at 5-09 in 365 days. "Sarah" was the first place 3-year-old and the reserve grand champion Brown Swiss at the Ohio State Fair in 1993. "Sue's" third dam is classified "V86-Certified" with records to 24,810M 4.4% 1.085F 3.9% 963P at 7-08 in 365 days.

The high-selling heifer of the sale was Blessing Peer Belinda ET, a Top Acres Peerless ET daughter with a PA of +1,369M +54F +46P +178$MFP.

"Belinda" sold for $9,800 to Ron and Renee Michalovich of Lakeville, Ohio, and Phil Yetter of Newton, New Jersey. She carries a conditional A.I. contract for a male calf with ABS. Her "2E92" dam, Blessing Sensation Bria, was the 1996 reserve All-American aged cow. "Bria" has records to 37,314M 3.7% 1,394F 3.7% 1,375P at 6-06 in 365 days. "Belinda" was consigned by Blessing Farms of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Branded Cheese

BELOIT, Wis. — Recognizing the need for new sources of revenue for the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association and the need to create a demand for Brown Swiss milk to help make Brown Swiss producers more money, the BSCBA has developed its own branded line of Baby Swiss Cheese.

"Exclusively Swiss" cheese is made from the milk of Brown Swiss cows.

As herd and cow numbers dwindle nationwide, the BSCBA has become involved in an area of the industry that is expanding, thus coming up with its "Exclusively Swiss" cheese. Because cheese consumption is expected to continue to rise and is rapidly closing the gap with fluid milk, and per capita consumption of cheese is up 25 percent in the last decade, now is the time to act, according to Brown Swiss Association leaders.

The growing demand for cheese and other manufactured dairy pro-

man of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission as well as another member of the PUC who provided an overview of the proposal; the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau; the Pennsylvania Farmers Union; Penn State Cooperative Extension; the Center for Rural Pennsylvania; a number of the state's major power companies as well as some potential new electricity brokerage companies; the Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association which represents the state's 13 and one New Jersey nonregulated, nonprofit rural electric cooperatives; Dairlea Cooperative Inc., which is involved in a pilot electric deregulation program in New York state; the Pennsylvania Campaign for Clean and Affordable Energy, a consumer and environmental advocacy group; the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, which is monitoring the activities of the changes; as well as some concerned individuals and Grange members.

The meeting was chaired by Sen. Dan Delp, of York, who said he became involved with the change not because big business wanted it, but because small businesses and rural constituents wanted it.

He said that the main reason for changing the regulation of the electric power industry was because there are some significant disparities in the state between power availability and consumer demand and regulations are keeping the supply from demand.

He said, for example that the large power companies that were designed to supply energy needs to the now-gone steel industry in Pittsburgh have excess supplies and therefore low rates (about 4 cents per kilowatt hour) compared to the high rates in York (about 11 cents per kilowatt hour).

He said the problem is not only aggravated because of the disparities in costs, but because the current system prevents that from changing.

Last year, the state Legislature created, and Gov. Tom Ridge signed into law, the "Electricity Generation Customer Choice and Competition Act." The Act sets up an outline for the deregulation of the sale of electricity by power generators.

The timetable for changing how electricity is allowed to be sold — from regulated electric power generation and distribution monopolies designed to serve a specific customer base to whomever a specific customer selects as the power provider — provides for a complete changover by Jan. 1, 2001.

But there are built-in delays for the change-over and power companies are going to be allowed to recoup some of their lost investment costs.

One third of customers are to be able to choose their engergy provider by Jan. 1 1999; two thirds by Jan. 1, 2000; and all by the final date.

The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission has been given responsibility under the Act to implement the changeover.

As part of the first phase of change, power companies have been requested to submit restructuring plans as well as plans for pilot projects.

The pilot projects are to include five percent of the customers starting in November.

However, there's more to an electric bill than paying those who generate electricity — there's costs for a range of services and costs for the physical transmission of electricity to be considered.

The existing electric power generation and distribution system that overlays the state like a huge spider web was mostly created through governmental oversight, direction and authority, so as to provide power for the needs for businesses that provide the economic base of the state, as well as increasing the standard of living for all commonwealth residents (for better health care, etc.).

In short, the plan is to have a local service provider deal with the physical structure of the electric power delivery system and have customers pay for that separately from the cost of the power.

In addition, since the existing investor-financed power structure was built at the request of the public with the oversight of the PUC, it was considered unethical to leave the investors to absorb the losses associated with reduced income from competition.

Therefore, customers will still have to pay for those investments.

Expectations are that customers may have an opportunity to see some initial savings from being able to purchase lower-cost electricity, while still paying for the other two aspects of receiving electric power.

The key to success, according to all who testified, was an informed consumer.

Most stated they would be looking to Penn State University Cooperative Extension and outreach to provide the kind of unbiased information that consumers can use to make the best decisions.

Power company representatives said they would also provide information, while a consumer-advocate group representative expressed concern that consumers needed to be made aware of and given help to identify the difference between unbiased information and marketing promotion.

It was also expressed that the State Grange, the PFB and other dedicated farmer-service and rural-consumer service providers would probably be invaluable in helping members to sift through an anticipated barrage of marketing promotions.

Some concerns about rural Pennsylvanians were expressed, such as the possibility of becoming captive customers to uncompetitive local service providers and bearing high service costs for the delivery of lower cost electricity and ending up worse off.

Those concerns were downplayed somewhat because those businesses are to remain monopolies and under direct regulation, including price controls and caps.

Concerns that deregulation of the electric industry would resemble the deregulation of the telephone industry were disputed based on the fact that this deregulation is for the sale of generated power, not for the delivery and distribution of power. Those costs would continue to be regulated.

Some — anticipating that energy sellers will begin to come up with a number of hidden cost gimmicks and misleading payment schemes in order to capitalize quickly on uninformed consumers — expressed concern that consumers would become confused and ripped off, especially the elderly and those with fixed incomes, which is a large percentage of the rural population.

That was downplayed with the reasoning that competition for customers would act as an incentive for energy providers to stay honest and to be clear and complete in their sales pitches.

Concern about possible lost tax revenue to the state from power generators was also expressed, though it was explained that the Act contains provisions that maintain tax levels and that out-of-state companies, and new companies would have to make up the difference.

Concerns ranged, but included such things as increased unemployement from downsized power companies to disparity in environmental laws governing the production of electric power.

For example, state environmental regulations are in effect to protect the health of residents, but if companies can't recoup the higher costs associated with being cleaner operations, then they would be expected to fold under open competition, and the dirty energy producers in another state would succeed and the economic injury to Pennsylvania would be multiplied.

However, Sen. Delp said it was his belief that Pennsylvania stood to loose much more economically without deregulation.

Delp said the reason he called the meeting in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State Grange was to provide an open forum, rather than a forumal hearing, for all to have a better opportunity to discuss the issues in a more comprehensive manner.

"The goal was to build a line of communications between the agriculture community, electric companies, the PUC and the state Legislature and ultimately to provide Pennsylvania rural and agricultural electric users with information to make intelligent decisions concerning electric use and choice of providers," Delp said.

He thanked the State Grange for helping to coordinate the hearing, "... and for remaining at the forefront of this and all of our agricultural and rural issues."

He said, "Competition will not solve all the problems of the electric industry or of our state's economy, but it's a vast improvement over the monopoly which governed electricity for most of this century.

"When it was first created, it served us well, because it allowed for basic deployment and development of a statewide electric system. However, the commonwealth must move beyond this outdated system to meet the needs of the 21st Century.

"It's good for consumers, good for electric companies, and ultimately that means it's good for Pennsylvania.

"In the meantime, as stewards of the ag industry in the rural community, we have a responsibility to assist with the transition of deregulation and to provide a forum for those who are involved in the transition, to have their voices heard."

Ozzie, Waldo Leave Mark At Lebanon Steer Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Show judge John Hausner, Dover, instructed the Lebanon Area Fair Beef Show exhibitors:

"Send me cattle I can use, are free-moving, that represent the industry."

Bearing a lot of confidence and a steer that met the mark was Justin Fuls, 14, holding "Ozzie," medium weight champion.

Ozzie left its mark, too, weighing 1,245 pounds, an Angus/Maine Anjou/Chianina from a sale in Maryland.

Hausner — who raises 40 head of purebred Angus, grew up in the cattle business, and has exhibited cattle nationally — said the steer "is a complete kind of steer, with a lot of red meat, a lot of expression and explosion in the rear."

Justin, son of Kevin and Karen Fuls, Richland, is a ninth grader at Conrad Weiser High School. This was his first supreme market champion at Lebanon.

Justin said that he spent an hour getting Ozzie ready for the show ring, and "clipping was the hardest part," he said.

In the showmanship contest, Danny Atkins, 21, son of Bill and Judy Atkins, Lebanon, won champion FFA showman.

Champion 4-H showman went to Jon Harnish and reserve to Heather Fuls.

Justin said his father, Kevin, helped select the steer. Justin said he saw the name in a book and selected it for the animal.

The heavyweight champion steer showed "a lot of eye appeal" to Hausner, who indicated that some of the steers on exhibit "were bigger than I'd like," he said. But as a representative of the industry, the steer worked well enough to win reserve championship for Jon Harnish, Lebanon.

Jon, 19, son of Guy and Carol Harnish, is a sophomore at Blackhawk East Junior College in Kewanee, Ill., majoring in animal science. The Cedar Crest graduate showed "Waldo," a 1,310- pound Chianina/Angus/Maine Anjou steer.

Jon picked the steer up from a friend in Ohio, selected from a video catalog. He picked out the steer right away because of its discernable "question mark" white banding on the steer's face, and "I liked its style and balance," he said.

Jon said there were three things to winning a supreme championship, the first time for him at the Lebanon Area Fair: "good animal, good feed, and good feet." Preparing the animal took some time too, including clipping and grooming.

Hausner was impressed with the way the exhibitors prepared for the show, feeding and grooming the cattle.

In the breed show, Polled Hereford junior champion heifer went to Margeaux Firestine, 12, daughter of Michael and Martene Firestine, Womelsdorf. Reserve went to Margeaux's sister, Morgan, 11.

In the showmanship contest, Danny Atkins, 21, son of Bill and Judy Atkins, Lebanon, won champion FFA showman. Champion 4-H showman went to Jon Harnish and reserve to Heather Fuls.

There were a total of 31 exhibitors and 59 cattle. Following is a list of show placings.

Pasture Walk At Fairview Fruit Farm

A pasture walk will be hosted by Aaron M. King in Paradise on Tuesday, Aug. 5 from 10 a.m. to noon.

King has a number of years experience with intensive grazing on 20 acres of pasture. To maximize forage production, the grazing area is divided into 17 paddocks that are cross-fenced.

King has experience with a variety of crops and pasture mixes for grazing. No-till seeding and weed control will also be demonstrated at the pasture walk. Attendees are invited to bring a lunch. Drinks will be provided.

Aaron King's farm, Fairview Fruit Farm, is located on Paradise Lane, south of Paradise. From Rt. 30 in Paradise, turn south on Singer Avenue. At the T, take a right on to Paradise Lane. The Pasture Walk is cosponsored by Lancaster County Graziers, Dairy Network Partnership, and Penn State Extension.

National Brown Swiss

NBSCBA Elects Directors, Takes Action For Future

BELOIT, Wis. — The ballots for four seats on the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association board of directors were tallied at the association's 1997 national convention in Cleveland, Ohio.

The following names were announced at the annual meeting held on July 11.

Joseph (Joe) M. Miller of New Madison, Ohio, was re-elected for District II. Joe and and his wife Mary K. are the owners of Kinndarkay Swiss Farm and have a daughter Anne.

Joe has served as a national director for Ohio and Pennsylvania since 1994. He has been the secretary for the Ohio Brown Swiss Association since 1973 and received the Progressive Breeder Award in 1986.

Joe has served as the breed representative in the Ohio PDCA and the Ohio Dairy Expo. His other dairy activities include being Ohio PDCA president for two years and secretary for two years. He has also been his county's dairyman association president and worked with 4-H and FFA dairy judging teams.

Roger Nierman of Brownstown, Indiana, will serve District IV as national director, as he has since 1994. Roger and his wife Jo Ella have three children: Brian, Amy and Jason; and one granddaughter, Shelby Michaella.

They are the owners of Long Lane Farms where the Nierman herd has won almost every major award presented by the association including the J.P. Eves Production Award, the National Protein Award and the Ira Inman Award for PTPR in Group III. Roger has served as Canton president, director and president of the Indiana Brown Swiss Association, as well as director of the Jackson County DHIA.

Charles Voelker of Perryville, Missouri, will serve his second term as director of District VI. Charles and his wife Nancy are the owners of Voelker Swiss Farms and have five children: Katie, Suzanne, Chad, Dayne and Grant.

The Voelkers have won premier breeder and exhibitor at the Missouri State Fair numerous times and have had grand and junior champion animals at that fair. Their herd has been on test since 1950 and began classifying in 1971. Charles is the past president of the Missouri Brown Swiss Association.

Paul Weber of West Linn, Oregon, was re-elected director of District IX. Paul is the president and manager of Idyl Wild Farm, Inc. He and his wife JoAnne have two children, Becky and Jacob.

Paul was chairman of the Classification and Type Committee from 1993 to 1995 and has been the director of Western Brown Swiss Sires. He was also interim director for Region IX in 1996. Some of his other dairy activities include serving as director for Land O' Lakes and Western Region, as well as serving as the president of the Williamette DHIA.

Other Business

During the annual meeting, Executive Secretary John M. Meyer reported on the association's progress over the past year and presented the 1997 Business plan.

According to Meyer, 1996 was a transition year for the association with the hiring of a new executive secretary and the election of a new president. The association also concurred a loss in its operation for the sixth consecutive year.

Meyer asked that association members not dwell on the loss, stating, "Rather, we must look to the future of this association and the Brown Swiss cow we all believe in. In January, your board of directors adopted a business plan that should be helpful in turning around the financial picture of the Brown Swiss Association. The business plan is our road map for future success."

Meyer presented the business plan outlined in 11 objectives to improve the financial situation of the association while maintaining service to its members. These objectives include:

- Increase registration five percent to 10,000 in 1997, increasing revenue to the association.
- Reduce payroll by $30,000 by staff downsizing.
- Increase live cattle and embryo sales by 47 percent to $325,000 in 1997.
- Develop a branded line of Baby Swiss cheese to increase demand for Brown Swiss milk, earning more money for producers.
- Launch the Young Sire Program in 1997 to sample more young bulls.
- Develop brochures to promote the Brown Swiss cow, Brown Swiss Enterprises and Brown Swiss products including the new line of Baby Swiss cheese.
- Create an advertising budget to promote the association in various dairy publications.
- Budget $3,000 to exhibit and promote the breed at domestic shows.
- Contract with Purebred Publishing, Inc. to produce the Brown Swiss Bulletin, cutting losses while improving the quality of the Brown Swiss Bulletin.
- Revamp the part-time representative program.

Also during the annual meeting, President Kathleen Beatty reviewed some of the board's recent actions.

At the request of members, the embryo transfer fee was changed so that for each flush, one transfer transaction is processed for a fee of $20.

The Brown Swiss Advantage Program was introduced to simplify the registration process and to build up the registration base by combining DHIR, classification and registration of pedigrees for all females under six months of age. Breeders were encouraged to help researchers find a useful marker gene for Spinal Muscular Atrophy (SMA) by donating embryos of carrier cows.

A one-time recording fee for foreign bulls whose semen is imported into the U.S. was set at a fee of $250 per bull.

Members will be able to vote on any recommendations made by the Bylaw Committee, which will be discussing changing the active age of junior members. The Junior Bell-Ringer program will no longer mention placings with pictures at the recommendation of the Youth Committee. The Youth Committee will also receive a percentage of the proceeds from the sale of the new Brown Swiss Association jackets.

The Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association, headquartered in Beloit, Wisconsin, was founded to serve as the national organization for the registration and promotion of Brown Swiss cattle.

Branded Cheese

ducts is keeping pressure on dairy producers to meet the growing demand for dairy products. "Exclusively Swiss" has the potential to increase the value of Brown Swiss milk, which in turn, should make the BSCBA members more money. In theory, when our members prosper, so should the association," said Executive Secretary John M. Meyer.

According to Meyer, "Exclusively Swiss" is manufactured in Monroe, Wisconsin, specially for the BSCBA.

"The quality of 'Exclusively Swiss' Baby Swiss Cheese is exceptional. It's a full-bodied, creamy Baby Swiss Cheese," Meyer said. "We are marketing 'Exclusively Swiss' to up-scale consumers by mail-order catalog, and we may someday enter the specialty store arena. We are starting the project on a small scale, which is keeping our start-up costs minimal."

The Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association, headquartered in Beloit, Wisconsin, was founded to serve as the national organization for the registration and promotion of Brown Swiss cattle.

Eastern Shore Thresherman Show

FEDERALSBURG, Md. — The Eastern Shore Thresherman and Collectors Assoc., Inc. will be holding its 37th annual Wheat Threshing, Steam and Gas Engine Show Aug. 1-3 at its showgrounds located on Rt. 313 between Denton and Federalsburg. The show features free admission and free parking.

Besides the main attraction of wheat threshing, there will be shingle sawing, sawing with a miniature sawmill and rock crushing. There will be steam engines, antique tractors, gasoline engines, antique cars and steam models in operation. A daily parade of all equipment will be held at 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 4 on Sunday.

There will be something for everyone in the large flea market with more than 125 dealers.

Spectators won't want to miss "Evolution of Threshing," which will demonstrate how threshing grain evolved from using the flail to the modern day combine. This will be held Saturday at 2 p.m.

"Traveling Bluegrass" will provide a free bluegrass music show on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and on Saturday evening, "Mel Price and the Country Troubadours," will be playing country music at 7:30 p.m. "Hearts Afire" will sing gospel music on Sunday at 5 p.m.

There will be plenty of good food with fried chicken platters, crab cakes, hamburgers, and hot dogs.

Exhibitors of antique equipment are welcome. There is no charge to exhibit. All times are subject to weather conditions.

For more information, contact Jack Bradshaw, president, at (410) 883-3455 or Brenda Stant, secretary, at (410) 673-2414 or (410) 754-8422 (showgrounds).

Dairymen's Association Rewards Knowledge

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The top winner in the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show's Junior Dairy Management Contest will receive $1,000 this year for the first time, according to Dr. Carl Brown, contest chairman. "The Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association will contribute the $1,000 award to recognize the knowledge and skill necessary to win this comprehensive contest. This is a tremendous addition, and a wonderful show of support," Brown added.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show will be held September 22-25 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. The dairy management contest is scheduled for Tuesday, September 23.

David R. Smith, executive secretary for the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association, said, "The Association wants to support activities that promote and enhance the dairy industry. This is a top notch contest that really exemplifies the variety of skills and information dairy farmers must demonstrate to be successful. We are very pleased to support the contest in this way."

Contestants are tested on their knowledge of dairy heifer judging, linear trait and pedigree analysis, meats identification, grain forage identification and nutrition, farm and food safety, dairy cow food and leg health, and farm business management.

Last year 70 young people participated in the contest, which is open to all 4-H and FFA members.

Other sponsors for the contest, which is being held for the 11th year, include: Land O' Lakes, Church and Dwight, Arm and Hammer Ag Products, Prince Agri-Products and Milk Specialities, Inc. The outstanding support of these companies allows for cash prizes to the top 10 teams in the 4-H and FFA divisions, along with plaques, ribbons and trophies.

Lunch is provided for all participants by Milk Specialities, Inc., and additional support is provided by CHR Hansen Bio Systems.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy show, now in its 34th year, is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association in Cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission. For more information call (717) 787-2905.

Crossbred Barrow Shines At Lebanon Swine Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — For the first in a long while, a crossbred barrow picked up the blue ribbon as supreme champion hog on Monday at the Lebanon Area Fair.

The 260-pound barrow was shown by Joe Tice, 15, son of Tom and Debbie Tice, Lebanon. The Northern Lebanon County High School sophomore showed a barrow, a combination Hampshire, Berkshire, and Duroc.

It was a first-time champion for Joe. The crossbred champion hog, bred at the Winebark farm, was sired by an Aspen purebred out of Highpoint Genetics, Chrisman, Ill. from a Big Hams daughter, according to Ken Winebark, Myerstown.

Show judge Randy Smith, Orangeville, Ohio, when he awarded the hog crossbred champion, indicated that some judges are thought to be prejudiced to a certain color of hogs. With him, that wasn't true.

"It's all about good hogs, period, regardless of color," said Smith, who said that black hogs often "sit on top of the classes in a division."

Reserve champion was shown by Brandon Winebark, 10, son of Ken and Janet Winebark, Myerstown. Brandon, in the 5th grade of home schooling, showed "Christine," a purebred Hampshire gilt weighing 257 pounds.

Smith, a show pig breeder, said the reserve champion has the "true shape" desired by the industry, with length and amount of muscling.

The Hampshire champion was sired by the Son of Ritz out of a Franchise daughter. It was Brandon's own breeding project out of a litter of 11.

Brandon, who never had an overall champion before at Lebanon Area Fair, picked the champion as a piglet because of its distinctive band. Normal bands are wide and separate — Christine's, however, joined and it was easy for Brandon to identify her.

Champion Berkshire was shown by Tim Schaeffer, 13, son of Paul and Tracy Schaeffer, Myerstown.

Yorkshire champion and reserve went to Jason Shirk, 15, son of Dawn and Tom Shirk, Lebanon.

Duroc champion went to Marc Arnold, 14, son of Donna and Lawrence Arnold, Womelsdorf.

Landrace champion of the Lebanon Area Fair went to Trisha Berger, 16.

Trisha Berger showed the reserve champion Landrace at the Lebanon Area Fair.

Kyle Fleener, 13, placed first in showmanship for swine competition at the Lebanon Fair. The judge commended him for being the most consistent in showmanship skills all day.

Landrace champion was awarded to Trisha Berger, 16, daughter of Bonnie Arnold and Greg Berger. Trisha also had reserve Landrace.

Reserve champion Hampshire went to Tim Schaeffer, Myerstown.

There were a total of 66 exhibitors and 126 hogs. Following is a list of show placings.

Big machines do their thing.

while other areas are a disaster. We are requesting the disaster declaration so we can get emergency loans and other federal disaster assistance in the areas that need it. We are doing this on an accelerated basis, not waiting to name the exact areas of need. Then we will work with the county agents to determine the exact needs of each county.

"As we continue to work together, we have to make sure people understand the important role of agriculture in the state," Glendening said. "We need to be aggressive and market agriculture like a business and make sure that while we are environmentally sensitive, we don't over-regulate and undo the good the farm community has done on a voluntary basis. I am excited to work with you. Maryland remains an agricultural growth community, and we want to make sure it stays that way."

Lewis Riley, Maryland's secretary of agriculture, introduces the governor.

The Ag Showcase Day at the fair is in its 17th year. David Wilson, Cecil County agricultural agent, said planning begins early in the year with a committee of agribusiness representatives and farmers. They plan for what is most important to farmers and what the dealers want to show. Crops are planted in the spring to accommodate the harvesting operations, and equipment of various makes and sizes are brought in for the day to give farmers an opportunity to test drive and see the equipment working side by side.

Demonstrations this year included both wet and dry hay baling, summer grasses and soybean weed control, hay bale processing, and a tractor drive. The equipment dealers giving demonstrations included Ag Industrial, Rising Sun; Hoober Equipment, Middletown, Delaware; Coopers Enterprises, Cecilton; and Benjamin Haines, Rising Sun.

Sponsors included Ag Industrial; Hoffman Seeds; Pioneer; Southern States; Monsanto; Cecil County Weed Control; Farm Credit; Southern States; Wayne Wright, and Compass Quarries.

An aerial seeding demonstration was given as part of the environmental cover crop program for Maryland.

An aerial cover crop seeding demonstration concluded the eventful day.

Gov. Glendening speaks to the crowd.

Ag Horizons Educates Educators

Participants met in small groups to discuss how to effectively relay the truth about scientific advances to a public who is easily swayed by misinformation from outspoken oppontents.

to winemaking in 4000 B.C. An example from the beginning of this century is the treatment developed for insulin dependent diabetes.

Biotechnology in the barnyard promises to unlease a new age of agriculture. Already scientists can separate sperm for female and male prodigy. This will help the poultry industry become more efficient by selecting male offspring for raising broilers that gain weight faster than females. Or, for producing female offspring for the dairy farmer.

Other technologies being developed are improved feed utilization, providing healthier products such as leaner meats, reducing losses from disease with more effective vaccines, reducing environmental pollution through the use of enzymes to improve phosphorous and carbohydrate utilization of feedstuff, increase productivity in milk production associated with the use of bST.

Possibilities being developed are selecting desired bacteria to take the odor out of pig manure. Enzymes to improve phosphorous digestion in poultry and swine.

Dr. Roland Leach Jr., tells how biotechnology offers the potential to provide safer and more nutritious foods for the increasing world population.

Leach showed slides to demonstrate the difference in sizes evident by using gene therapy injections in rats and chicken. Processes such as these will eventually enable hens to produce antibodies to suppress selected diseases.

World population is expected to double during the next 40 years, which will put tremendous pressure on the planet to increase food production at the current rate.

Ag biotechnology can help in its ability to improve yield, quality, and nutritional value. It can help reduce waste, control pollutants, enhance safetly, and esnure an adequate food supply.

Steps for successful commercialization of biotechnology must enable the technology to be affordable, to be safe for animals and for humans and to be acceptable to the public.

The last criteria is perhaps the most difficult because of public misconceptions.

"The U.S. has the finest scientists in the world but the worst science education," Leach said of the public's inabilitity to understand many of the scienctific advances being made today.

Resistance to the use of animals in experimentation is largely based on misunderstandings, according to Leach. This was brought to the forefront by bovine somatotropin (BST), a protein hormone produced naturally by cows.

Of the public's misconception about BST, Leach said, "All hormones are not created as equal. Consumers should realize that the BST hormone that is ingested orally is digested like any other food protein. Thus, to be biologically effective, it must be injected. In contrast, steroid hormones are absorbed and biologically active when consumed orally. Examples include vitamin D and oral contraceptives."

Unfortunately, this difference in hormones is not recognized by the general public."

Dr. Kathryn Kolacz, molecular biologist with Monsanto, explained how biotechnology is used in developing insect resistant soybeans and canola.

The process took 11 years from start to finish in developing Soybean Ready. Extensive trial plantings and records needed to be kept during the development stages. In addition to creating an insect resistant soybean, Monsanto was also intent on developing a soybean that was not resistant to Roundup.

Slides of the trial gardens showed the many different aspects of testing. In the middle stages, some plantings were overcome with weeds, but the end result appears weed free.

Kolacz said that two different methods are used to insert desired genes into plants. The agrobacterium method employs the use of soil bacteria. In the other method, a particle gun is used. A DNA coating is put on the desired gene and inserted into a gun which shoots the particle into the plant.

The necessity to clearly foresee potential problems before investing the hugh amounts of time and money involved in product engineering is evidence by the plight of the FlavorSavor tomatoes. Although the process works in keeping the tomato fresh 45 days after ripening, the variety of tomato used was not a popular choice. The process is now being developed in varieties that consumers

Pa. DHIA To Hold MUN

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — On August 11, Pa. DHIA will conduct a seminar on MUN and true protein at the Country Table Restaurant in Mount Joy, Lancaster County.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will dismiss at 2 p.m., with lunch being provided.

Featured speakers are to include Dr. James Ferguson, VMD of the New Bolton Center, University of Pennsylvania; Jim Boyer, DRPC manager at Pa. DHIA; Dixie Burris, laboratory manager at Pa. DHIA and George Cudoc, farm manager at Marburger Dairy, Evans City.

Pa. DHIA invites all dairy farmers, nutritionists, veterinarians and other interested parties from Lancaster and all surrounding counties to attend this informational seminar.

Find out how George Cudoc saved over $8,000 per year in just protein savings alone while dropping the culling rate from 35 percent to 18 percent in 1996. Days to first service dropped from 90 to 79 days while the conception rate improved from 28 percent to 49 percent.

All of these excellent results were accomplished through using the milk urea nitrogen testing and report that is available through Pa. DHIA at 15 cents per sample.

For additional information on MUN, true protein or any DHIA services from Pa. DHIA, please see our web page at http://www.dhia.psu.edu.

Did you know you can receive DHIA reports via e-mail or through the web at Pa. DHIA? Did you know that DHIA lab data is now available on the date of test via the Internet? Come visit us in cyberspace to see the latest state of the art technology that is available to today's modern day dairyman or call 1-800-344-8378 for more information.

The benefits of biotechnology gives plants a natural ability to fight insects without the use of insecticides. Another project using biotechnology is developing flowers with lasting blooms when cut.

Scientists are introducing a gene or genes into crop plants to develop potatoes with higher solids content. This holds the potential of bringing consumers lower fat French fries, because potatoes with higher solids content will absorb less oil when frying.

Monsanto and other companies are working hard in producing corn that is resistant to corn rootworm larvae, which is a hugh problem for corn growers.

"Whichever company develops the resistant corn first wins big time profits," Kolacz said.

The USDA, EPA, and FDA highly regulate seeds, herbicides, and foods developed by biotechnology, but do not do the actual testing. Instead, Monsanto and similar companies need to do required extensive testing studies that the regulatory agencies critique.

In the U.S., protest groups are more vehment about biotechnoloy studies on animals. But in Europe, protest groups also offer great resistance to plant biotechnology. Much of the public's outcry is not based upon knowledge.

Both Leach and Kolacz stressed that the public's fears about biotechnology could easily be allayed if they understood the scientific facts instead of believing sensational and misleading stories often portrayed by the media and by protest organizations.

Key trends in the supermarket were noted by Dr. David Hettinga, vice president of Land O'Lakes, Inc.

Consumer concerns for a healthier lifestyle are encouraging innovative technology in new products.

"Consumers want miracle foods — delicious, healthy, cheap, zero calories, and convenience," Hettinga said.

Although consumers share a latent concern for chemicals in food, that is overshadowed by "fat" concern. Consumers are obsessed with fat content in food, which has spurred the development of fat substitutes and fat reduced foods.

Last year, 8,722 new food products introduced in the supermarket failed. Some products fail from lack of taste, convenience, and advertisement, but some, such as UHT milk failed because milk without refrigeration is not needed in the U.S. However, in countries that have limited refrigeration, UHT milk fills a need.

Dr. David Hettinga told how consumers influence market developments.

Dr. Kathryn Kolacz explains how plants can be changed to become more insect resistant through biotechnology.

For the dairy market, Hettinga predicts that instant coffee lattes, cappuchinos, and similiar drinks will soon be unleashed in great volume on the market. He also believes the trend to low fat foods will continue.

Dr. Mark Varner, extension dairy scientist, spoke of the vast store of information available through computer technology. His fascinating introduction to electronic research had been reported in an article that appeared earlier in this paper.

Dr. Harold Ott, Cooperative Extension regional director, challenged the conference participants to think of innovative ways to share the information they learned with those who need to hear. Through education ungrounded fears become powerless.

Ag Horizons Conference is sponsored by the Southeastern Regional Council of the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives, and Penn State's Cooperative business educaton and research program.

Ja-Jen Farm Shows Supreme Champion

Jacksons Capture Troy Fair Premier Breeder, Exhibitor

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford Co.) — Ben and Dean Jackson of Columbia Cross Roads were named both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor of the 1997 Troy Fair Holstein Show.

Held Saturday, July 26, the show boasted more than 170 entries and was judged by James Burdette of Mercersburg.

Throughout the day the Jacksons fared well with many animals at or near the top of their class, including the reserve grand champion cow, 4-year-old Mt-Glen A Jet Lipton.

The reserve grand champion stood second to the grand champion of the day, 4-year-old Gen Rich Vintage Destiny, owned by Gen-Rich Farm, also of Columbia Cross Roads. The grand champion was also named the supreme champion of the entire Troy Fair Dairy Show.

The junior champion of the show was Pack Herd BC Bazoo, a spring yearling owned by Pack Herd Holsteins of Troy. She was followed by the reserve junior champion, Norkval Prescott Lipton, owned by Linda and Gerald Kisner of New Albany.

A list of the top three winners in each class follows:

AMERICAN JERSEY CATTLE ASSOCIATION

AJCA Announces Lifetime Contest Winners

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Maplerow Mercury Aron-PTL-P, E-96% recently repeated as the top leading living lifetime Jersey cow in both the milk and fat categories. She is owned by Peggy A. Bennett, Albion, N.Y.

The Leading Living Lifetime Production Contest is sponsored each year by the American Jersey Cattle Association. It recognizes Jerseys alive as of December 31 of the contest year.

In order to be nominated, cows must have a lifetime production of 150,000 lbs. milk, or 7,500 lbs. fat, or 5,000 lbs. protein.

Only DHIR production credits are used to calculate the standings. The total lifetime production achieved by the winners of the 1996 Leading Living Lifetime Contest is a credit to the producing ability of the Jersey breed.

Glen Meadows Maple Sweetness, E-90% also repeated for the second year as the top lifetime protein production winner. "Sweetness" is owned by Glen Meadows Farm, Fultonville, NY.

Maplerow Mercury Aron-PTL-P, E-96%, has a mature equivalent (m.e.) average on 13 lactations of 19,334 lbs. milk, 886 lbs. fat and 790 lbs. protein. This 15-yr.-old cow has completed eight lactations of more than 19,300 lbs. milk and 740 lbs. protein, six of which are over 20,000 lbs. milk. This cow also ranked fourth in protein production and was Grand Champion of the 1986 All American Open Show.

Glen Meadows Maple Sweetness, E-90%, produced 9,636 lbs. of protein to take top honors in that category. She also placed third in milk production and fourth in fat production with a lifetime production of 244,616 lbs. milk and 11,059 lbs. fat in 4,617 days. She has completed 11 lactations in her lifetime.

Hildas History of Star Jersey won the Presidents Trophy and Hilmar Cheese Yield Award. She is owned by George Crews, Star, Idaho.

The Presidents Trophy is based on mature equivalent protein production. The Hilmar Cheese Yield Award is based on 305-day actual production completed in 1996, and is computed using the modified cheese yield formula for 38 percent moisture Cheddar.

"History" won the awards for her 31,228 — 1,574 — 1,310 m.e. and her actual record of 4,0 285 26,810 lbs. milk, 1,401 lbs. fat, and 1,166 lbs. protein. This record yields a winning total of 3,765 pounds of cheese.

The Leading Living Lifetime Production Awards, Presidents Trophy and Hilmar Cheese Yield Award were presented during the AJCA-NAJ annual meetings in Indianapolis.

National All-Jersey Inc. Works To Benefit Industry

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Our organization has and continues to be directly involved in helping the entire dairy industry adopt a milk pricing system that meets the change in the way milk is consumed."

So said Ted Luther while reporting to the membership for the last time as president of National All-Jersey Inc. The NAJ Annual Meeting was held June 30 in Indianapolis.

"NAJ has given dairy farmers the economic incentive to produce the kind of milk consumers are demanding," Luther added.

Luther reported that more than 20 years ago, when NAJ was founded, only 27.6 percent of milk was used for processing cheese. Today that figure has grown to 45 percent, while the amount of milk used for fluid consumption has decreased to 29.4 percent.

Luther added, "In 1976, almost all of the milk in this country was priced using skim-fat pricing. That pricing system was not too bad considering the amount of milk consumed in fluid. However, if skim-fat pricing was still the main milk pricing system today, with over 70 percent of the nation's milk supply going into manufacturing, what additional challenges would the dairy industry be facing? What additional challenges would the dairy industry have as the result of using a method of pricing milk exactly opposite of the way milk is being consumed?"

In his remarks to the members, Executive Secretary Calvin Covington pointed out that NAJ's efforts in equitable milk pricing has resulted in higher milk prices to Jersey owners. ". . . Jersey milk prices in multiple component markets was $.58 to $1.62 per hundredweight more than in non-multiple component pricing markets."

Covington further stated, "Promoting equitable milk pricing, the use of some type of multiple component pricing, continues to be the number one activity of National All-Jersey Inc. Currently, 13 of the 32 federal milk marketing orders, plus California's state order use some type of MCP, A USDA study released last year shows that 75 percent of all dairy farmers in this country are eligible to participate in either a regulated or private MCP plan.

Elections

Jim Ahlem, Hilmar, Calif. and David Chamberlain, Wyoming, N.Y. were re-elected to the NAJ board of directors. Bill DeGroot, Bellingham, Wash. was appointed to the board by the American Jersey Cattle Association.

During the re-organizational meeting, Bil Mason, Buhl, Idaho was elected as president with Jim Ahlem named as vice president. Jim Huffard, Crockett, Va., was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Ted Luther.

markets due to the cooperatives locking plants into sole supply contracts thus forcing farmers to become members in order to market their milk. The intimidation of farmers afraid of retaliation if they speak out. The controlling of cooperatives by their employees hired out of industry to run them. The failure of USDA and the FTC to regulate the retail and processing monopolies was forcefully aired and two of the three members of the committee charged with Capper-Volstead oversight promised a through investigation of coop practices.

I ended my testimony by pounding the podium and stating that unless USDA set the price of our commodities fairly using cost of production or did its job and broke up the processing and retailing monopolies so that several smaller companies had to compete for our milk that the family farm was finished.

The testimony was from farmers, farmers home agents, and one extension agent. Testimony was to run till 6:30 and I left at 4:30 central time so I do not know if anyone from industry spoke. Secretary Glickman and co left suddenly after my testimony at about 11:30 without explanation. He was supposed to stay until 3:30 but I guess he did not like what was being said. There was no lunch available for the farmers only the commission members and the USDA employees.

Judging from the questions asked by the commission members they are on our side. Please send testimony and help them do their job. The timing for the Commission is extremely short. It was first published in the Federal Register on July 11, 1997 (Volume 62, Number 133) the creation and naming of the committee members was announced July 16, 1997. Secretary Dan Glickman requires all testimony be received by the commission by August 11, 1997. He further requires all recommendations be on his desk by September 30.

Any testimony, comments and statements, can be a short letter, about saving the family farms should be sent to: National Comission on Small Farms, U.S. Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 2890, Room 5239, South Building, Washington, D.C. 20013.

As a result of the first meeting, there are serveral commission members who will be investigating th Co-operatives. Any statements, comments, testimony specific with stories of intimidation, coercion; ie. due to co-op exclusively contracts you are forced to join the co-operative to market your milk, milk plant terminates your contract and you are threatened with loss of market if you didn't join the co-op will be helpful in their investigations. Send this testimony to: National Commission on Small Farms, address as above. Mr. Gregory Smitman, Inner Tribal Ag Council, Suite 500, Billings, MT 59101. Mr. Mike Dunn, Assistant Secretary, USDA, 14th St and Independence Ave., Washington, D.C. 20250.

All testimony, letters, statements, and comments should be in the mail to these addresses the latest August 7. It is important that all farmers have their say in saving their livelihood. Now is time to put your pen to paper and be heard.

It is imperative that any information on the immoral, illegal, monopolistic activities of all the cooperatives, Kraft and the other processors be put together ASAP. I will have names and addresses of the Capper/Volstead oversight committee members shortly. There will be an investigation by a straight shooter who took on Tyson for the chicken farms. Also, Gregory E. Smitman will raise this issue with the small farms committee. Mr. Smitman is the head of the Inner Tribal Ag Council and firmly on our side. His address is Gregory E. Smitman, Inner Tribal Ag Council, 100 #27th St., Suite 500, Billings, MT 59101.

Time is short as all written statements must be in by 8/11/97.

USDA is tyring to control this commission by: 1. Preventing it from hearing from farmers; 2. Feeding it false information; 3. Severely limiting its time; 4. Trying to define a small farm as a farmer with less than $20,000 gross income/yr.

The only speaker was a professor who wrote a paper that various commission members pointed out used a severely flawed data base and was purposely skewed. He tried to convince the commission that the solution to the dairy crisis was for every farmer to process and bottle the milk on the farm and sell it retail. I pointed out how many small operations of that type had gone out in the north east.

We must flood the commission with the true picture from thousands of farmers from all over the country so that they will be able to back up their conclusions.

Mike Dunn is one of the three members of the commission which oversees the Capper Volstead act. He has promised an investigation into the practices of the coops. Plesae send him whatever information your have so that he will have a complete picture. For instance the way they handled the compact, while not illegal does give insight into how they operate. His address is: Mike Dunn, Assistant Secretary, USDA, 14th St NW & Independence Ave SW, Washington, DC 20250. He is a straight shooter.

DAIRYMEN SAY YES AS TESTING PERIOD NEARS END

As I am writing this, there are hundred and hundreds more Dairymen testing Formula M. The results are trickling in. By the time you read this, we may have the final results. I have been testing Formula M for years and all the results have exceeded my expectations in appetite improvement; higher energy level; giving more milk; cows (even the extremely difficult or next to impossible ones) getting pregnant on the first breeding.

AND NOW!!! Dairymen everywhere are telling me that the Somatic Cell Count goes down when they feed Formula M. Over and over, I am hearing that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down. Dairymen tell me that they have tried other products and that they thought they saw some benefits, but the same Dairymen tell me that they see very dramatic differences almost immediately when using Formula M. Dairymen say they see a vast improvement in energy level and appetite. They say that they can see a significant increase in milk in a week to ten days after starting on Formula M. Some Dairymen say their cows average 5 pounds more milk per cow, per day. The last reports I am waiting for are on Somatic Cell Count. They keep coming in and they keep verifying what we have been told many times before, that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down when feeding Formula M

If I had known all this before I set the price, (8¢ per cow, per day) I might have charged more. After all, it looks like most Dairymen will make an extra $1.00 per cow, per day.

Formula M is a powder and it comes in a 5 gallon plastic bucket. Feed Formula M according to the directions on the label, only ½ ounce per cow per day. (Formula M is very concentrated. ½ ounce per day is all they need). You can put Formula M in the TMR, you can put it in your grain mix or if you prefer, you can top dress Formula M. All you need to do to get Formula M is call one of the numbers below. We ship the same day by UPS. Make the check payable to FRANK LAMPLEY and give it to the driver when he delivers.

A 5 gallon bucket is enough for about 40 cows for one month and costs only $92.00 (I pay freight). Formula M is completely free of drugs and made by the same people who make Vitamix.

There is one question that keeps coming up over and over, "How long do I have to keep feeding the Formula M?" "Forever?" The answer is, "Only as long as you want to keep making the extra dollar per day, per cow."

FORMULA M... IT'S WHAT CAUSES BABIES

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Angela Werley Talks About Her Reign

Life Is Not The Same For Werley Family

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HAMBURG (Berks Co.) — Almost one year ago, Angela Werley was selected from county dairy princess status to be crowned Pennsylvania's Dairy Princess. Life has changed not only for Angela but also for the whole family.

With Angela often traveling for appearances, the whole family has had to adapt to changing schedules. While it means more work, the whole family is enthusiastic about the dairy princess program.

Angela's reign has included meetings with Pennsylvania's governor at the Capitol, singing the National Anthem at a Hershey Bear's game before 7,000 people, participating in the Easter Egg Roll at Washington D.C. where she met President Clinton, and 250 other events.

While there are mostly perks that come with the role, a dairy princess must always be prepared for the unexpected. At one non-farm banquet where Angela was asked to speak, she complimented the host on the wonderful meal. "The only thing lacking was milk," she said.

While she spoke, an elderly man hurried to the kitchen and brought back a glass of milk to give to Angela.

Angela took a sip and almost gagged. The milk was curdled and sour. But ever the gracious princess, Angela swallowed the sour milk and maintained her composure while she thanked her host for his thoughtfulness.

Weather can play havoc with promotions also. At one Easter Egg promotion, it was so cold that Angela could not feel her feet when her duties ended. But through it all, she kept smiling.

While many surmise that Angela's role as dairy princess began with the coronation, Angela is quick to point out that her training actually began with barn chores and, later, serving five years as a dairy ambassador before being crowned.

The backbone of dairy-related knowledge is established by day-to-day exposure with the cows in the barn and in showing them in competition.

Home for the dairy princess is Phil-Don Farm, which is named after her parents Philip and Donna. The Werley's Hamburg farm includes 130 acres and 140 Holsteins, 25 head belong to Angela.

The Werleys show cows at Kutztown, Schuylkill and Reading fairs in addition to district shows, All American, and the Farm Show.

"We look for cows that produce milk and not ones that win ribbons," Phil said.

One of Angela's cows has earned 86 points as an aged cow and has milked more than 150,000 pounds.

Dairy promotion has been a vital part of the whole Werley family for many years. It all started when Angela's youngest sister Pam (now 13 years old) was selected as Berks County Little Miss eight years ago. Her mother joined the county dairy promotion, which inspired both Angela and another sister Melissa (now 18 years old) to serve as dairy ambassadors. Six-year-old Matt wishes he could become a dairy prince.

The Werley family takes a break with milk and brownies—made with lots of butter—of course.

During her reign, Angela has missed a lot of hay and straw harvesting. Being the youngest, Pam has often had to fill in in barn chores. But if Angela is home, she goes to the barn at 3 p.m. to clean out the troughs, feed the heifers and calves, and help with milking.

Cows are fed a total mixed ration for the past seven years. During the summer the cows are put out to pasture in the morning, but return to the barn at noon. Since the Werleys installed tunnel ventilation, the cows are eager to get back into the cooler temperatures of the barn.

Phil has installed permanent fencing by using a cement curb with 4-inch poles inserted. The change makes a nice area for the kids to tie their show animals for washing.

If Mom and her daughters need to attend dairy promotion functions, dad manages at the farm. He rises at 4 a.m. and sometimes works until midnight.

While dairy promotion means more work for Phil, he isn't complaining. He enjoys participating in functions when he can and attends Holstein tours.

The Werley family sets aside Sunday as a family day. The only barn chores are milking and feeding.

The Werleys believe it's important to set aside time for family vacations and always attend the National Holstein Convention.

"The farm is not going to fall apart if I'm not here," Phil said. "But it means I need to work extra hard before and after the trip.

This year, the convention was held at Grand Rapids, Mich. It required lots of shuffling for the family to attend because Angela had appearances to attend on the way out and on the way back.

"My first priority is dairy princess. I've never turned down a promotion," Angela said.

Music has always been a major love in the Werley family. Angela has taken piano lessons for eight years, voice lessons for two years, and she plays the flute and guitar. She and her sisters often sing while their mother accompanies them on the piano at church functions.

As word of her ability spread, Angela has been asked to sing at some of her appearances. The most

Matt, 6, is always eager to help in the barn.

In preparation for an upcoming church program, Pam, Missy, and Angie sing while their mother plays the piano.

notable was singing at the Hershey Bear's stadium.

Opportunities like these have enabled Angela to gain more confidence, although Angela said her background in 4-H speaking really helped her.

While fulfilling dairy princess duties, Angela maintained a job at the Laurel Nursing Home, located across the field from the Werley farm. The nursing home allowed her to work a flexible schedule of 10-15 hours weekly. Missy also works at the nursing home and sometimes fills in for Angie if a promotion takes her away at the last minute.

Phil said, "I think it's important for the kids to get off-the-farm jobs to see how things are done and to learn to work around other people."

To his benefit, Angela and Missy both prefer working on the farm.

Missy isn't sure if she wants to follow in her sister's footsteps and run for the dairy princess crown. A student at Penn State Berks County Campus, Missy also participates in 4-H Dairy Bowl. Her team won the Junior National competition in 1995 and came in second in the senior national level last year.

Part of the credit for such a strong showing goes to her mother, Donna, who serves as coach with Teresa Davis.

In September, Angela will pack her suitcases to continue her studies in dairy science at Penn State's Main Campus. She is considering adding a communications minor to her study load with the goal of using it for dairy promotion.

On hot days, the cows eargerly wait to enter the barn before noon.

Phil Werley is especially fond of this hat that proclaims "PA. State Dairy Princess's Dad."

Matt poses with two nice growthy calves.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Beautiful. Sparkling. Pure treasure.

Yeah, I know. It's just an old mudpuddle.

You know. A mudpuddle. Hole in the ground. Filled with rainwater. Source of water for birds and small animals. Home of convenience for wandering frogs. Great delight to ride through with your bike and splash your buddy. Or stomp through with your boots. Or even better, your sneakers. Then parade through Mom's kitchen.

Like so many things, we take mudpuddles for granted. Well most of the time, anyway.

Until it doesn't rain. And doesn't rain. And doesn't rain some more.

And then a mudpuddle becomes pure treasure.

We had a field road full of treasure last week. Of the most precious kind.

See, that well-beaten, dirt, field road is a major thoroughfare here on our farm. Feed is hauled over it every day. Tractors and trucks worry it constantly with their worn tires, moving loads of seed, fertilizer, manure, crops, cattle.

All the daily "stuff" of keeping the farm running is heavily dependent on this humble artery of localized agriculture commerce: the dirt farm road.

Nearly every evening, we watch the meadow groundhogs run across it on their trips between the alfalfa field and the fence row. The Canada geese (now all grown up and gone) prize it as a source of gravel and grit for grinding up their grass dinners. Crows, rabbits, even an occasional wary white-tail doe, find the road useful for various purposes.

That road is great for walks at dusk to the frog pond or the woodlot. For quickie bike rides. In winter — on those rare occasions when conditions are just right — it doubles quite nicely as a cross-country ski rail.

And, let me tell you, that road was about worn down these past many years. Probably a good inch of its dusty topping had blown away. Vanishes. Disappeared into hot, windy clear-blue sky, stirred by frequent "dust devils" which whirled and twirled the road's top layer.

Every passage of a truck or tractor sent up gales of dust, floating across the meadow. So dry, the dust literally obsured any vehicle as it passed, underlining the meaning of the phrase "vanished in a cloud of dust." Dust that covered the corn and hay adjoining its hard-packed surface. Dust that settled on the peppers and string beans and melon plants strung around the garden (at least discouraging the bugs!).

Dust that drifed — driven by south breezes — to filter into clean wash hung on the line and through the house screens onto every surface of floor and furniture. I recall the computer doctor who one disdainfully informed me my old PC had just about the dirtiest electronic guts he had ever laid eyes on. Field road dust played a major role, for sure.

Now — praises be — the dust has diminished. Replaced, at least temporarily on the dirt field road, by preicous, prized mudpuddles.

Sure, the preciousness of mudpuddles may be mostly symbolic.

They symbolize a second chance for the areas's most important field crop. Corn. For some, it was too little and too late to do much good. Blessedly, for much of the planting, the timely source of the mudpuddles came at the last split second to push more growth and encourage the formation of yellow-kerneled ears of high-nutrition grain.

Soybeans, more drought-tolerant, will spread their leaves, send stalks more skyward and push pods from the stalks. Pods that will fatten, each with a couple of ball-bearing-like seeds inside which, when dried, provide material from cattle feed to ink to an auto fuel to multi-use food ingredient.

Hay and grass and livestock pasture. Late corn-on-the-cob and watermelon. Lima beans and cantaloupes. Tomatoes, peaches, cucumbers, peppers, pears. Apples. Pumpkins.

Hey, we even need to mow the lawn again.

Thanks, Mother Nature. Thanks for the precious mudpuddles.

Please keep 'em coming...

Adams County Appoints Coordinator

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Jeanne Marie Plotica has been appointed to the Penn State University Cooperative Extension staff as 4-H/Youth Coordinator and assigned to Adams County.

A native of Adams County, she attended New Oxford High School and earned her bachelor of science degree in Art from Millersville University in May 1992. She completed teacher certification requirements through Millersville University in December, 1993.

Plotica has been active with the 4-H program in a variety of capacities, including charter member of the Abbottstown Community 4-H Club, 1992 Adams County summer program assistant, volunteer leader, and co-organizational leader. She helped to coordinate and run a joint program to train "Youth At-Risk" leadership skills. This program was a combined effort between Penns State Cooperative Extension, Adams County Extension, and Adams County Job Training Partnership Act. In 1992, Jeanne spent six months in Finland as part of the International 4-H Youth Exchange program.

Plotica comes from the Conewago Valley School District where she worked as a high school guidance assistant. While working for the school district she served as an advisor for the schools peer helping program and the Interact Club. Jeanne and her husband Mark live in McSherrystown.

Trickle System For A Garden

A trickle (drip) watering system may work in your garden all summer long. This system of plastic tubing puts water right at the plant roots. It saves from 30 to 70% of the water used by overhead sprinklers. With erratic and lengthy dry periods, this system saves limited water supplies and puts the water where the plants can get it right away.

You do not need to be a plumber to construct a trickle watering system. Equipment is generally found at garden supply stores. Names of dealers may be found in the yellow pages under "Sprinklers — Garden and Lawn."

Water pressure in most homes ranges from 20 to 60 pounds per square inch. A garden trickle system operates at lower pressure — 2 to 12 pounds per square inch. The pressure is reduced by using a pressure regulator (reducer) or by running water through successive tubes of smaller diameter. Water runs from the source to the garden generally in ¾ inch diameter garden hose. Water is filtered through a screen (80 to 100 mesh) to keep sand and suspended particles from clogging the tiny holes in the trickle tube.

A PVC supply pipe is attached to the hose from your home with a hose adapter, and laid next to the garden. Run the supply pipe the length of the garden. Holes are punched or drilled into the supply pipe and trickle tubes are attached to run down the garden rows. These trickle tubes are left on the soil surface or are buried a few inches below the surface. Trickle tubes have small holes which direct water to individual plants. Seal the ends of the trickle tubes with a knot.

For more information on Trickle Irrigation for home gardens, call the Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 840-7408.

More Water Saving Tips

During a drought obey local water restrictions, fix leaks in watering and irrigation systems, and place timers between the faucet and the hose to avoid excess watering. Don't keep your landscape constantly wet. Use soaker hoses especially in landscape beds and water in the early morning or early evening. During the fall months, plant shade trees to increase cooling in the landscape and replace lawn with more groundcovers to reduce maintenance.

Use mulches to reduce watering needs in the garden. Control weeds in the garden and use less fertilzier and more water when planting fall crops.

Try to water evenly and deeply — to about 4 inches in depth. Water less often but for longer periods for time. Mow your lawn at a height of 2-3 inches.

Design any new landscape areas with drought tolerant trees, grasses and ground covers. Add more organic matter to the soil at planting.

Use shade to an advantage in the garden by harvesting vegetables at younger stages of development.

Keep water in a barrel with a lid or spare trash can, use bath water, rinse water or 'grey' water from your home. Route rain gutters and downspouts to collect water.

Common drought-tolerant plants include Pimpernel, Geranium, Marigold, Petunia, Dusty Miller, Verbena, Indigo, Daylily, Poppy. Common trees and shrubs that suffer less in dry soils include Box Elder, Black Locust, Sassafras, Flowering Quince, Gray Dogwood, Witch Hazel, Juniper, Bayberry.

Apply mulch 3 to 4 inches deep. Mulch controls weeds and helps your plants and soil retain water. Help your soil absorb water by mixing peat, compost, or other organic materials within the top 10 inches of soil.

Any questions regarding the above article can be addressed to Tom Becker, Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 840-7408.

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE
SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

Sensational Summer Salads

With the wonderful variety of salad greens available today, salad-making is taking on a whole new dimension. Greens ranging in flavor from mild to spicy and from tender to crisp can be combined to make mouth-watering salads.

Once you become familiar with their differences, it's fun to pick and choose, contrasting flavors and textures and making the most of colors and shapes.

Here are some hints that might help you start out with the freshest, most delicious salad ingredients:

- When shopping, look for the freshest greens with whole leaves that are crisp and shiny.
- Store unwashed salad greens in tightly closed plastic bags in the crisper drawer of your refrigerator for no longer than three or four days.
- Just before using, remove any limp or discolored leaves, separate leaves, wash and spin dry.
- Cut radicchio, romaine, iceberg, watercress, and endives with stainless steel knife. Tear red and green leaf and butter lettuces.

Greens Varieties

- Green or red leaf lettuces have a mild flavor, smooth texture and relatively delicate leaves. Red leaf is edged with deep purple-red color and green leaf is a medium green color. These are versatile greens that go well with more crisp and slighlty bitter greens such as endive or radicchio. They can stand up to a hearty vinaigrette or a light, creamy type of dressing.
- Butter lettuce, also known as Boston, is a delicate, light green, fading to soft yellow inside. Leaves are slightly curly and smooth in texture. It is excellent for lining salad platters and combines well with watercress and endive as well as tangy fruits, including canned pineapple and orange sections. It is also delicious with poppy seed dressing.
- Radicchio looks like a small crimson-red and pearly white cabbage. Its flavor is slightly bitter, or peppery, and its texture is sturdy. It complements a variety of salad ingredients and is especially good with robust dressings and ingredients such as balsamic vinaigrette and feta cheese.
- Curly endive is loose and lacy on the outside, with green-tipped outer leaves that curl at the end. The heart of the lettuce is compact.

The leaves have a nice "bite" to them and combine well with butter lettuce and red or green leaf lettuces and a medley of ingredients, including oranges, chopped dates, and toasted nuts.

- Watercress, is a member of the mustard family, has an appealing, peppery snap to it. The leaves are small, round, and dark green with stems. As a salad green, it is refreshing in combination with butter, lettuce, escarole, and red and green leaf lettuces. It's excellent with a raspberry vinaigrette and a sprinkling of crumbled goat cheese or chopped and added to a favorite sandwich.
- Escarole is a slightly bitter tasting member of the endive family. Its broad, slightly curved leaves are pale green, shading toward yellow in the center. It adds a nice texture to a variety of lettuce blends and goes well with red or green leaf lettuce in salad with seafood and creamy dressing.
- Iceberg lettuce packed round head is pale green in the center to medium green on the outside; mild flavor. A source or patassium.
- Red cabbage is round with reddiesh purple leaves that are tightly packed. Tastes similar to green cabbage. Excellent source of vitamin C and a good source of potassium.
- Chinese cabbage is dark green, small, round leaves with a mild cabbage flavor. Good source of vitamin C and potassium.

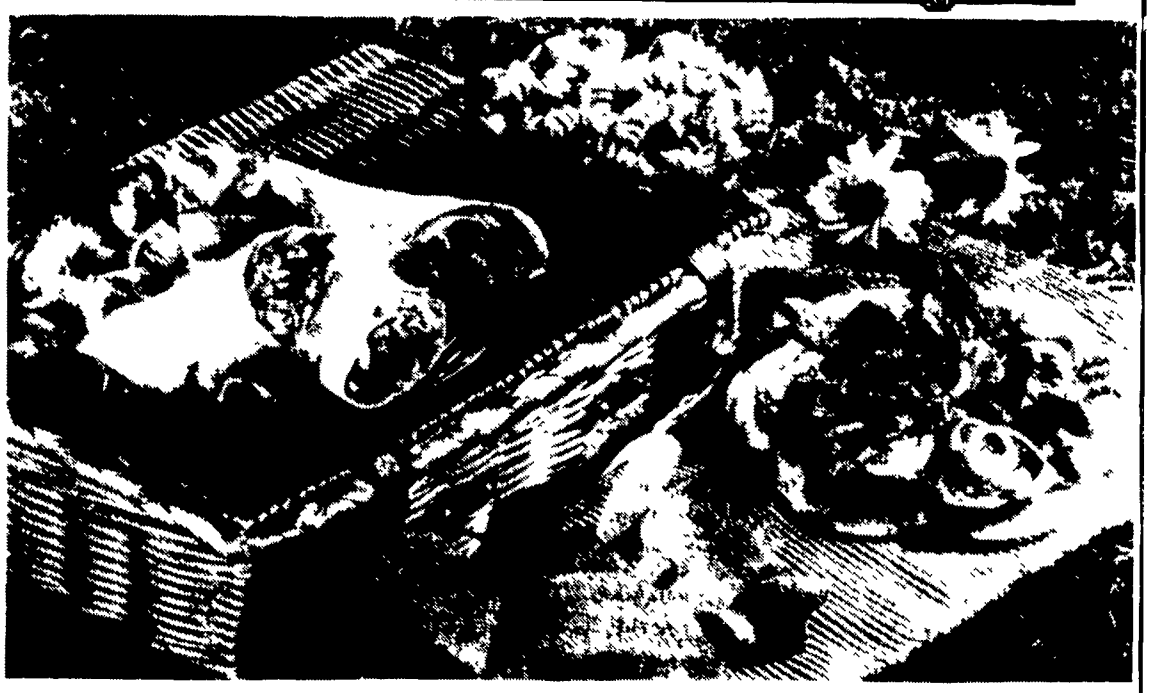
MIXED GREENS WITH BALSAMIC VINAIGRETTE

4 cups mixed greens
¼ cup chopped walnuts or pecans, toasted
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
¼ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons vegatable oil
2 tablespoons balsamic or red wine vinegar
3½ -ounce goat cheese, cubed
Freshly ground black pepper

Combine salad greens and nuts in large bowl; set aside.

Combine orange peel, orange juice, oil, and vinegar in small bowl. Pour over salad just before serving; toss to evenly coat. Evenly divide salad onto 4 salad plates. Arrange cheese over each salad. Serve with freshly ground pepper to taste, if desired.

To toast walnuts, bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes or until golden brown.



Innovative ways to serve salads are becoming more popular among the young crowd.

VEGETABLE SALAD IN-A-WRAP

2 large red bell peppers, seeded, halved, and cut into strips
3 small zucchini, ends removed, halved and cut into strips
16-ounce can black beans, rinsed, drained
2 cups corn, cooked
¾ cup chili sauce or salsa
3 tablespoon onion and herb seasoning
6 large flour tortillas
3 cups lettuce mixture of your choice

Saute red pepper and zucchini until tender. Combine cooked vegetables, black beans, corn, chili sauce, and seasoning; mix well. Place ½ cup lettuce and 1 cup vegetable mixture down center of each tortilla. Fold tortilla top and bottom over mixture, then roll sides in to form a tight rolled sandwich. Wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate up to 2 hours before serving. Serve chilled or at room temperature, garnished with fresh cilantro. Serves 12.

HARVEST SALAD

1 cup cooked peas
1 cup cooked green beans
1 cup cooked sliced carrots
1 cup uncooked cauliflowerettes
1 cup diced celery
1 cup French dressing
6 large tomatoes
½ teaspoon salt
1 head lettuce
Mayonnaise
Parsley

Combine peas, beans, carrots, cauliflower, celery, and French dressing. Refrigerate to chill mixture.

Peel tomatoes, sprinkle with salt, invert and chill. Drain tomatoes and cut into five sections leaving the stem end whole.

Place each tomato in a lettuce cup, fill with vegetables, top with dollop of mayonnaise and parsley. Serves 6.

Did you know that canola oil holds the distinction of being "nature's healthies vegetable oil?"

Canola contains the lowest saturated fat content of any edible oil and is high in mononunsaturated fatty acids that have been shown to lower blood cholesterol levels.

Don't miss out on the newest canola oil salad recipes. The Minnesota Canola Council has recipes for pasta, lentils, wild rice, pork and more! The brochure also includes tips for canola oil and greens. To receive your free recipe brochure, send a self-addressed-stamped envelope to Minnesota Canola Council, Salad Recipes, 1306 W. Co. Rd. Ida's Notebook by

Ida Risser

Every now and then my husband gets a hankering to go to his camper in Jack's Mountain in Snyder County. Usually I go along for a day or two.

We've gotten into a set pattern of stopping in Middleburg at a grocery store. Here we buy what we do not usually buy in a grocery store. A big submarine sandwich and potato chips for lunch. Maybe some bananas for breakfast with cereal and I'll even sneak in a box of cookies. At home we live more frugally and prepare food from scratch. We've been eating all kinds of berries for weeks and so the bananas were a nice change.

I have learned to use the gas stove in the camper but I still prefer my electric stove at home. The water is very hard and leaves a white sediment in the bottom of the kettles. So, my meal preparation often consists of opening a can of soup and making sandwiches. Again, this is very different from the kinds of meals that I make at home.

We usually go fishing on Walker Lake either in the evening or early morning. It seems that we only catch pan fish but I always think that is better than no fish. By 6:30 a.m. we are out on the large lake with only one other boat in sight. This time I got 12 fish but only kept a few.

Allen gets tired of fishing before I do and so he lays on a seat in the boat. His fishing cap with the license on it was on his head as he rested it on two life preservers. A while later I saw something white floating on the water. It was his cap which he had been wearing but now it was about to sink. He started the electric motor and got close enough to catch it before it went under. We had a good laugh about the situation as it turned out OK.

QUESTION — Cel Brown of West Chester wants the recipe for a bread mix like the ones in the store called Daily Bread Company's. These mixes can be made ahead of time.

ANSWER — Here are two recipes from Rebecca Ruppert, Berks County Alternate Dairy Princess.

Creamy Peach Pie

3-ounce package peach gelatin
¾ cup boiling water
1 cup peach ice cream
1 cup cold milk
4-ounce package vanilla instant pudding
½ cup whipped dairy topping
8-inch pie shell

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add ice cream; stir until melted. Combine milk and pudding, mix in smaller mixer bowl. Beat at low speed for 2 minutes. Add gelatin mixture; whip until thick and fluffy. Fold in whipped topping; spoon into pie shell and chill about 2 hours. Garnish with additional whipped topping and fresh or drained peaches, if desired. Serves 6.

Peaches VaVoom

½ cup milk
½ cup sliced peaches
1 scoop vanilla or peach ice cream

Combine in blender until thick and foamy. Other fruits in season may be used. Try freezing it. Serves 1.

ANSWER — Here are some potato recipes.

Bacon Twice Baked Potatoes

8 large baking potatoes
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
¼ cup butter
1 cup sour cream
1 large egg
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
½ pound crisp cooked bacon, crumbled
Paprika for garnish
8 tablespoons grated cheddar cheese for topping

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Rub potatoes with vegetable oil and bake for one hour or until tender.

Cut an oval from top of potatoes, dip out the potato from the shell into a bowl. Put shell on a baking sheet.

Mash potatoes, add the butter, sour cream, egg, salt and pepper, and mix thoroughly. Stir in the crumbled bacon and then refill the shells with the potato mixture; sprinkle with paprika and 1 tablespoon on top of each stuffed potato. Return to 400 degree oven for 10 minutes. Serve warm. Yields: 8 servings.

Sweet Potato Casserole

3 cups cooked sweet potatoes, mashed ¾ cup granulated sugar
2 large eggs, beaten
1 cup evaporated milk
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Topping:

1 cup brown sugar
⅓ cup butter, melted
1 cup shredded or flaked coconut
1 cup chopped pecans

Prepare 2-quart casserole dish by greasing with butter and set aside. Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

Beat together mashed sweet potatoes, granulated sugar, eggs, milk, butter, and vanilla. Pour into prepared casserole dish.

Combine all the topping ingredients, mix well until crumbly. Sprinkle over sweet potato mixture and bake for 30 minutes. Yields: 8 to 10 servings.

This is so good, you'll think you are eating dessert.

ANSWER — J.R. Hohmeier, Painter, Va., wanted to locate a recipe for a doughnut that was baked, not fried. Thanks to Mary Stover, Loganton, for sending a recipe.

No-Fry Doughnuts

2 packages active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
1½ cups warm milk
⅓ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
4½ -5 cups all-purpose flour
¼ cup butter, melted

Glaze:

½ cup butter
2 cups confectioner's sugar
5 teaspoons water
2 teaspoons vanilla

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add milk and shortening; stir for one minute. Add sugar, eggs, salt, nutmeg, cinnamon, and 2 cups flour; beat on low speed until smooth. Stir in enough remaining flour to form a soft dough (do not knead). Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about one hour. Punch dough down. Turn onto a floured surface; roll out to ½ -inch thickness. Cut with a 2¾ -inch doughnut cutter. Place 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Brush with butter. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about 30 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Meanwhile, in a saucepan, melt butter, stir in sugar, water, and vanilla. Stir over low heat until smooth (do not boil). Dip warm doughnuts, one at a time, into glaze and turn to coat. Drain on wire rack. Serve immediately. Yield: 2 dozen.

ANSWER — Peggy Tice of Felton, Del., wanted a recipe for home canning salsa. Thanks to Pam Zimmerman, Bethel, for sending a recipe.

Salsa

3 cups tomatoes, peeled, chopped
3 cups whole jalapeno pepper
¾ cup onion, chopped
1½ teaspoons salt
3 garlic cloves, minced
1½ cups vinegar

Use rubber gloves to remove seeds from jalapenos!

Combine all ingredients, bring to a boil. Cover and simmer five minutes. Pack in sterilized pint jars. Use all the liquid. Divide it evenly among the jars. Put on cap, screw band firmly. Process in boiling water bath. If you like thicker salsa, simmer for 1 to 2 hours before processing.

Process pint jars in boiling water bath for 30 minutes. Start counting processing time when water returns to a boil.

STRAWBERRY ROYALE SALAD

Make a graham cracker crust in 9x13-inch pan. Bake 5-7 minutes.

Cream 8-ounces cream cheese
1½ pints heavy cream, whipped
½ cup sugar

Spread in the crust. Refrigerate.

Dissolve 1 small package strawberry Jell-O in 1 cup boiling water.

Add 10-ounces thawed strawberries
8-ounce can crushed pineapple
½ cup chopped nuts, if desired

Mix well, pour over cream cheese mixture.

Chill.

These are two favorite salads from our family. I am 18-years-old and live in Ulster with my parents, Malcolm and Sylvia Murphy. I have two sisters, Teresa and Annette who are teaching and in Rutgers Graduate School. I also have an exchange student sister, Josie, from the Phillipines.

Eileen Murphy
Dairy Princess

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

5 ripe bananas
20-ounce can crushed pineapple
1½ cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
8-ounce jar maraschino cherries, chopped, save juice
32-ounces sour cream
6-ounces pecans, chopped

Mash bananas in large bowl. Add drained pineapple, sugar, lemon juice, cherries, and cherry juice. Stir well.

Fold in sour cream and pecans.

Fill 10-cup ring mold or spoon into cupcake liners (about 36). Cover with foil. Freeze 8 hours. Tastes like a banana split.

TOMATO APPETIZER SALAD

3 large tomatoes
Fresh basil leaves
Sour cream Ranch dressing

Wash and slice tomatoes about a quarter-inch thick. Wash and drain basil leaves, enough for each slice.

Arrange slices of tomatoes with a leaf of basil on each slice, over lapping around the plate. Place a small bowl of sour cream Ranch dressing in middle of plate with a spoon so people can add their own dollop of dressing or tomato. To make sour cream dressing, add 1 packet Ranch dressing, mix in 1 cup sour cream.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Need some more blueberry recipes for this season. Here are two from Sarah Clark, Breezewood.

Blueberry Dumplings

½ cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ cup milk
⅔ cup water
¼ cup sugar, divided
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups fresh blueberries
⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg

Combine flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, baking powder, and salt; stir well. Stir in milk, set aside. Combine blueberries, remaining 2 tablespoons sugar, and water in a saucepan; stir well. Bring to boil. Drop ¼ cup batter at a time into boiling mixture; sprinkle with nutmeg. Cover and cook over medium heat 10-12 minutes or until dumplings are done. About 4 servings.

Fresh Berry Trifle

1 small package vanilla pudding and pie filling
1 teaspoon rum flavoring
12 ladyfingers
2 cups fresh blueberries
1 cup whipped cream
¼ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons toasted sliced almonds

Prepare pudding as package says. Cover surface to prevent a skin from forming. Cool to room temperature, stir in flavoring. Split ladyfingers lengthwise; arrange in 2-quart glass serving dish. Use as many lady fingers as needed to line dish. Beat whipped cream and brown sugar in chilled mixer bowl until stiff. Spread over trifle; sprinkle with almonds. Refrigerate at least 1 hour before serving time.

Note: ½ lemon chiffon or angel food cake, torn into 1-inch pieces (4-5 cups) or 8 slices ½ -inch thick of pound cake works just like ladyfingers).

Kids Work In Garden

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

The hot summer sun shines brightly on a group of youngsters hunkered down in an herb patch — parents in tow — pulling weeds.

The youngsters are some of 80 taking part this summer in Ashcombs Farm and Greenhouses' Childrens' Gardening Program at its facility on Grantham Road near Mechanicsburg.

These particular children are in the 9-10:30 a.m. Peter Rabbit Class. Others will join class coordinator and insturctor Charlie Fogleman in the Flower Class and Herb Class later in the day.

Ben Kelly, 6, comes to the free classes from his home in Hagerstown, Md., so that he "can learn how to plant." While his parents, Erin and Linda Kelly, shop in the bake shop, deli and garden center across the street, Ben is busy pulling weeds because he "likes to work in a garden."

Meeting the second and fourth Saturday of each month — rain or shine — the classes have planted gardens named Peter Rabbit, Mr. McGregor, Sunflower House, nasturtium, pizza, bean teepee and traveling herb.

Fogelman said they have completed such projects as Petunia Pig, made from a large soda bottle, learned to collect and dry material such as herbs, flowers, grasses and weeds, planted a pair of their old shoes and made a topiary ivy wreath.

In the next weeks they will make a flower note card, harvest potatoes and sunflowers, do terrarium plantings and enjoy pumpkin and apple time.

Kymberlie Davenport, 4, of Steelton, talks about the shoes she planted several weeks ago. "I water them every day and at home I have sunflowers growing," she said.

Four sisters — Katelyn Grumbine, 8, and Bethany Grumbine, 11, both of Middletown, and Tara Grumbine, 6, and Hilary Grumbine, 4, both of Hummelstown — are taking part in their class followed by dad, Jeff Grumbine of Mount Joy.

Katelyn said she particularly likes the classes because "We get to make stuff like the pig with cloth ears and a tail and a soda bottle and we planted old shoes."

At Fogelman's call the youngsters sprint from the weeds and herb garden to an area where picnic tables are set among a garden of flowers and arbors. Here they are assisted by volunteer helpers Bonnie Rhodes, who is a master gardener, and Sylvia Braderman, a Harrisburg Civic Garden Club volunteer.

Other volunteers who help with the classes are Betty Smith, Jane Ciuffetelli, Joanne Ward, Pat Gramm, Patty Kuhns, Patty Suchocki, Janell Oldack and Cyndi Staats.

Rhodes said she is helping wih the group because she wants to pay back the support given to a Harrisburg inner city project at Foose School by Ashcombes and Fogelman. "Charlie's a friend and I learn too," she said.

Braderman, who is on the board of the Garden Club Federation of Pennsylvania and past president of the Garden Club of Harrisburg, enjoys her volunteer work with the youngsters, adding, "I have a love for herbs."

And, she adds, "I love kids. Anything a child is involved in I love to do."

Active in gardening projects, she also notes that through the help of the Garden Club of Harrisburg, Ashcombes, and Friends of Riverfront Park, 900 herbs were planted at the Sunken Garden by the Harvey Taylor Bridge. The garden was destroyed several years ago when the Susquehanna River flooded.

Fogelman further explains that the youngsters also learned about tool safety,. the parts of a plant, companion plants, how to plant seeds, plants and potatoes and the dangers of hazardous plants.

They have already tasted carrots, radishes, cucumbers, and mint tea and are expected to have a French fry party and a pizza party.

The goal of the program is to involve young people in gardening and to teach them that working in a garden can be fun and is not all work, Fogelman said.

Ashcombes developed the program to give something back to the communtiy and to introduce children to herbs and vegetables.

From 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 23, Ashcombe is having an Herb Fest. The event features herbs and their uses. Displays will be located in tents and seminars will be held in the meeting room at the facility. Tickets can be purchased in advance at the dried flower counter at the center.

The children will display some of their projects made during the summer classes.

At 11 a.m. Aug. 23, "Cooking with Game and Fish" is scheduled when Wendy Plowman will teach how to use herbs in cooking venison, goose, moose, duck and salmon. Cost is $7. The class is 1½ hours long and advance registration is necessary.

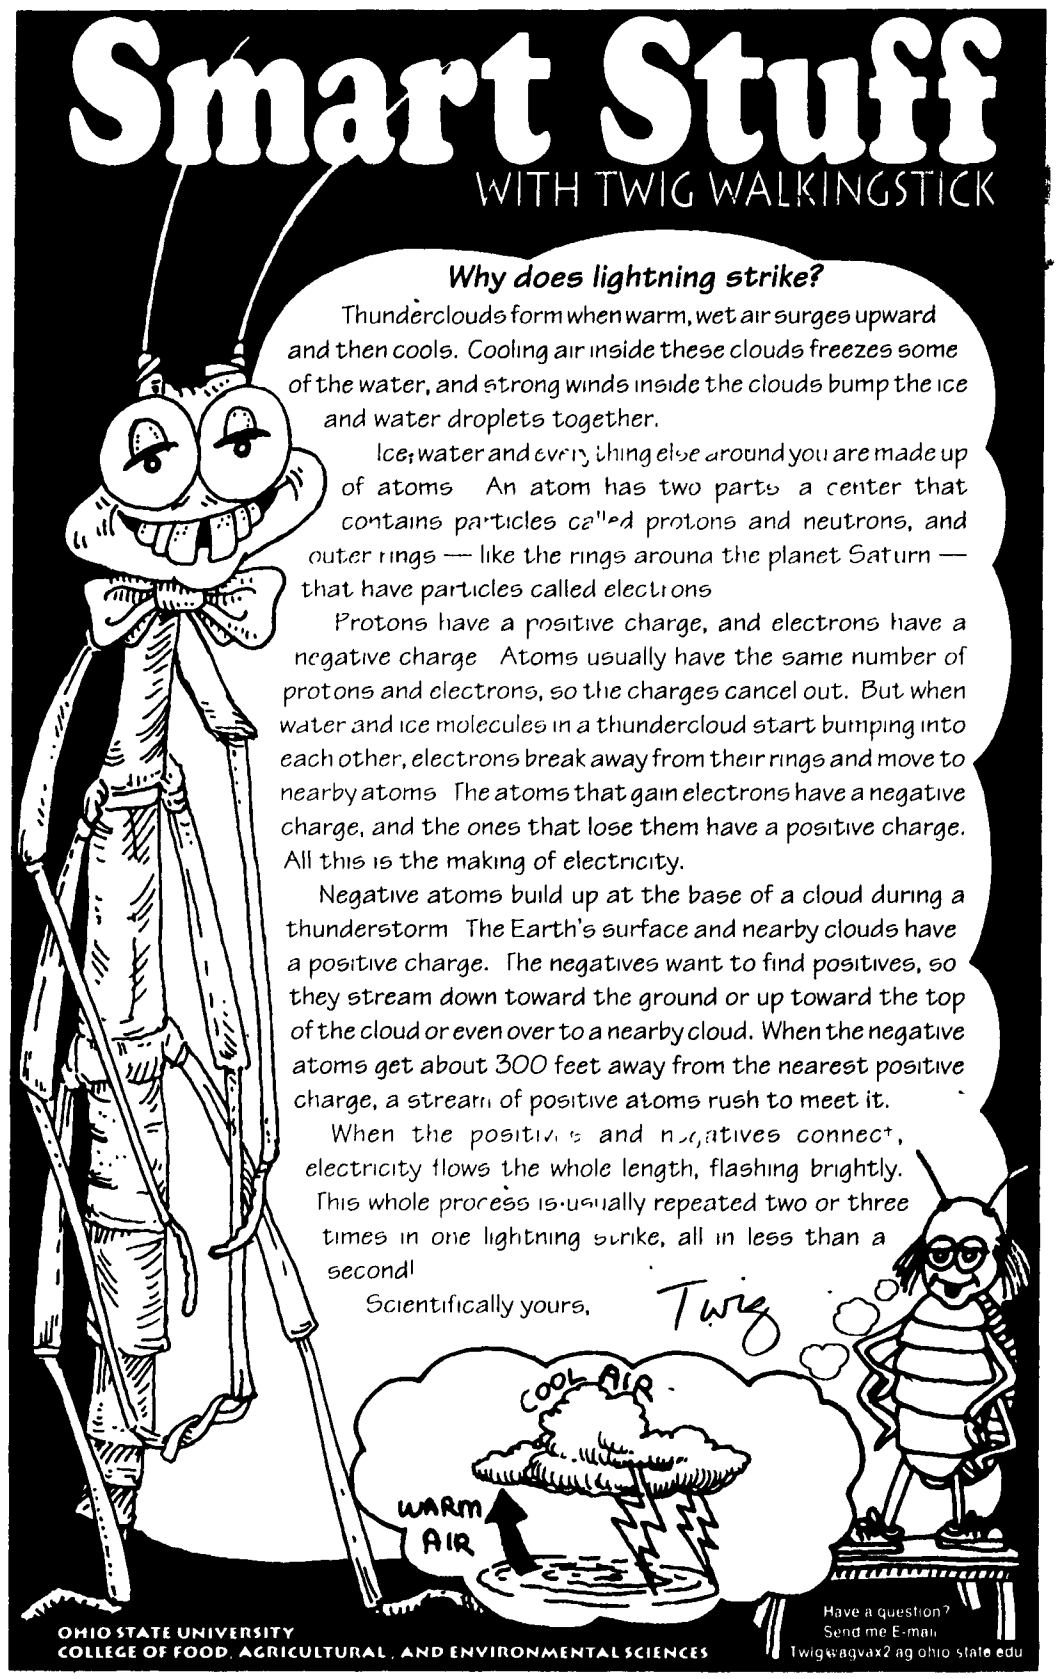
At 2 p.m. the same day "Historic Uses of Herbs" will be presented by Kalman Markus who will present a program on using medicinal herbs.

Kalman along with his wife, Dawn, are the owners of The Herb Corner. He is a certified natural health professional.

Cost for the 1½ hours class is $7. Advance registration is necessary. For information or to register call (717) 766-7611.

Youngsters taking part in Ashcombe Farm and Greenhouses' Children's Garden Program busily repotted ivy plants to make topiaries. The project was just one of many the children enjoyed during the summer program.

Children pull weeds from the herb garden at Ashcombe Farm and Greenhouses near Mechanicsburg, sponsors of free classes for kids 5-12 years of age.



Smart Stuff
WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK
Why does lightning strike?
Thunderclouds form when warm, wet air surges upward and then cools. Cooling air inside these clouds freezes some of the water, and strong winds inside the clouds bump the ice and water droplets together.
Ice, water and everything else around you are made up of atoms. An atom has two parts: a center that contains particles called protons and neutrons, and outer rings — like the rings around the planet Saturn — that have particles called electrons.
Protons have a positive charge, and electrons have a negative charge. Atoms usually have the same number of protons and electrons, so the charges cancel out. But when water and ice molecules in a thundercloud start bumping into each other, electrons break away from their rings and move to nearby atoms. The atoms that gain electrons have a negative charge, and the ones that lose them have a positive charge. All this is the making of electricity.
Negative atoms build up at the base of a cloud during a thunderstorm. The Earth's surface and nearby clouds have a positive charge. The negatives want to find positives, so they stream down toward the ground or up toward the top of the cloud or even over to a nearby cloud. When the negative atoms get about 300 feet away from the nearest positive charge, a stream of positive atoms rush to meet it.
When the positives and negatives connect, electricity flows the whole length, flashing brightly. This whole process is usually repeated two or three times in one lightning strike, all in less than a second!

Poland Agricultural Exchange Builds Friendships

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Farming is changing in Poland since the Communist are no longer in power. State farms are now under private ownership.

Representatives from the farming community in southwestern Poland recently visited Pennsylvania's agricultural community.

"It is much the same here as in our country," said Agnieszka Koronowska, whose father owns one of the former state farms.

Coordinator for the group Connie Rutt agreed. "The part of Poland from which they come is very progressive," she said.

Rutt has been to Poland five times through 4-H exchanges.

"During my first visit in 1990, the state farms were mostly empty, but now they are coming alive and are very productive," she said.

In addition to raising food for their own people, Poland exports strawberries, mushrooms, apples, swine, and cattle.

Cows in Poland are similar to Holsteins but smaller and beefier.

Poland is well-known for Polish hams, they said.

Owners of the farms were too busy to come to the U.S., but sent their children with the belief that they are the next generation of farmers and it is important for them to see how things are done in America.

During their stay, the group admired the new bio lab at the Dept. of Ag, visited many farms, Penn State, the master farmer tour, Czestochowak located in Philadelphia where Polish people go for a pilgrimage, the Atlantic Ocean in Wildwood, and New York City.

According to the participants, fashions are the same in the U.S. as in Poland. They especially like Western wear and country music and were delighted to shop at Park City. Prices for food and clothing, they said, are similiar.

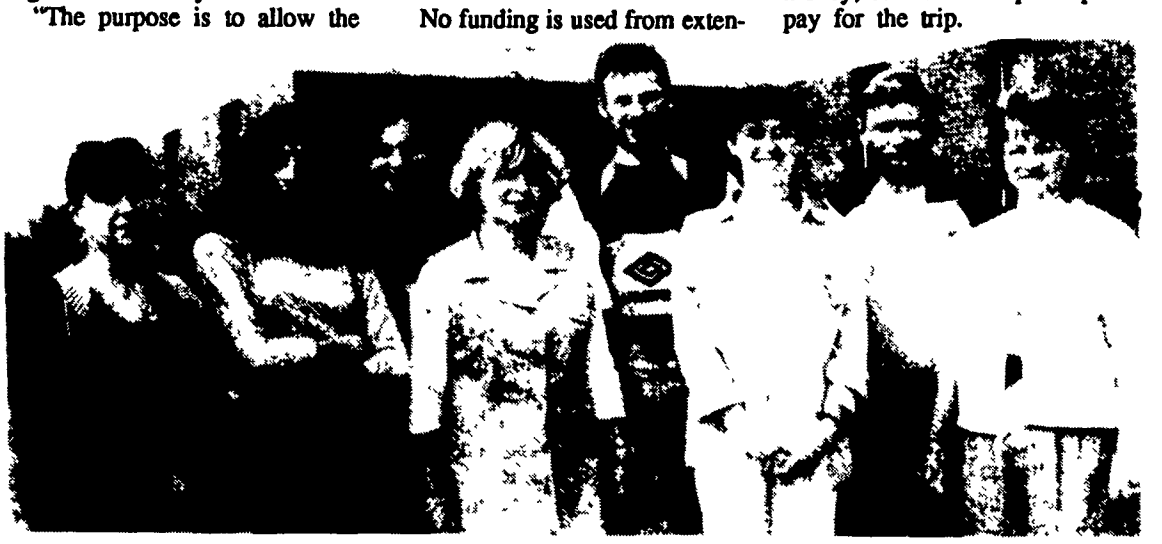
The most shocking sight for the group, they said, were the Amish and the large cars that Americans drive.

This is the first time adults have participated in the 4-H exchange. Host families were Lancaster County farmers who will have the opportunity to reciprocate by visiting Poland next year.

"The purpose is to allow the exchange of ideas and getting to know each other, which makes the world seem much smaller," Rutt said.

No funding is used from extension or Penn State funds for the exchange, although fundraisers are held by 4-H'ers.

Some area businesses donated money; otherwise the participants pay for the trip.



Extension coordinator Connie Rutt, right, stands with the Polish agricultural group exchange: Marek Sompach, Agnieszka Koronowska, Karonlina Pawlak, Julia Marciniak, Pawel Polcat, Anna Dartosz, Marzena Sliwa, Iwona Koziowska, Piotr Sliwa, Malgorzata Swablewska Sliwa, Jolanta Szubert, Halina Kunert, Aneta Kurpisz, Monika Kurpisz, and Jaroslaw Kunert.

For Jessica Watson, center, a television show fantasy became reality last Saturday when she was crowned the 1997 Lebanon Area Fair Queen. Starring Role Turns Into Reality For Lebanon Queen

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — As usual, it starts out feeling like a dream.

A young woman who yearns to be queen plays the part on a TV show.

After all, she looks like the girl next door — full of spirit, friendly with everyone, well poised, yet confident in her sequined dress and prepared to make an impact on the judges.

Jessica Watson, cast as Sarandon, the Girl Next Door, in an episode of "Pete's Place" on TV's Blue Ridge Cable 11 to be aired this fall, was called on the show to wear a tiara in the role of Fair Queen. All the while, she was dreaming of wearing the crown, for real, in a pageant.

For Jessica Watson a television show fantasy became reality last Saturday when she was crowned the 1997 Lebanon Area Fair Queen.

Jessica, 17, is the daughter of Jeff and Laura Watson, Kleinfeltersville. A senior who is home schooled, Jessica learned early on to develop poise and confidence — in fact, she's had 13 years of dance training and has choreographed a few shows of her own.

The co-director of Joyful Noise and as a volunteer for Lebanon County Youth for Christ, Jessica spends a lot of time with youth ministries, working with inner city kids. "And she's really into 4-H," said her mother, Laura.

Jessica serves as president of 4-H Busy Bees and has served on the 4-H board of directors for three years. Busy Bees has involved Jessica in a wide range of crafts, including cooking, photography, "everything but farm stuff," said her mother, Laura.

As for being Lebanon Area Fair queen, "She's real excited about it," Laura said. Jessica has been involved with the county 4-H fair for about 11 years and has dreamed about being queen for years.

But what has really kept up Jessica's involvement through the years has been her work with inner city youth, helping them understand what a fair is about. "Many of the youth didn't even know there was a Lebanon Fair," Laura said. A few of the kids participated in the Saturday evening Karaoke of which Jessica was instrumental (pun not intended) in getting them involved.

"Jessica wants to see more kinds get involved" with 4-H, noted Laura. "Some of these kids have never seen a cow or sheep before. They love the cows out here."

Jessica, who intends to study urban ministries at Nyack in Nyack, N.Y., is also directing a missions trip for two weeks in Philadelphia at the end of the fair. During the trip, she will work with the inner city kids from South Philadelphia from junior and senior high school, teaching them dance and song, helping them deal with some of the troubles they face. Jessica said the skits feature contemporary Christian music and dance. She also helps with area vacation Bible schools.

In addition, Jessica has attended the 4-H Congress and was picked as one of four soloists. She also performed at the recent 4-H talent revue at the National Association of County Ag Agents Conference. She was vice president of the sales team at the recent National Institute For Cooperative Education youth school in St. Louis.

For years Jessica served as Lebanon Fair 4-H Auction "runner." A member of the Faith Evangelical Free Church in Newmanstown, Jessica has had additional starring roles, including a production of "Snow White and The Seven Dwarves," in Ephrata ACT productions, and at plays conducted at Lancaster Mennonite High School.

The episode of the children's TV show, "Pete's Place," was the second filmed and will be shown in September, Jessica noted.

In it, she plays the fair queen being interviewed on a TV show.

She has also competed in the Miss Pennsylvania Teen USA pageant when she was 14. She plans other scholarship pageants in the future. She completed courses at F&M College in Lancaster and at Lancaster Bible College.

Jessica has three sisters, Joyce, 20; Jennifer, 13; and Jacqueline, 9.

A Winning Experience Pays Off For Pie Contestant

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Two years ago, practice made perfect for the Lebanon Area Fair Apple Pie Contest winner.

On Monday afternoon, the knowledge gained at that 1995 practice session paid off again for pie contest winner Connie Knauss, Myerstown, with her winning recipe, "Candy Apple Pie," which is reproduced here.

The 1995 winner of the contest said the secret to pie winning success is to bake the first top layer of the crust and then apply a brown sugar/butter/glaze topping with pecans.

The pie recipe is a secret to success with her family, also.

"It's the only apple pie I ever make anymore," said Knauss, after winning the blue ribbon and the $25 premium.

She baked the cake at 10 a.m. and brought it into the contest, still warm. Connie said she and her family enjoy it warm and often will microwave the serving after refrigeration next day to bring back the good taste.

"It tastes great with ice cream," she noted.

Accompanying their mom to the contest were Emilee; Mollie, 8½; and Julie, 2.

Coming in second place with the red ribbon and $15 premium was Sarah Hasson, Birdsboro, with her "Dutch Apple Pie." In third place with the white ribbon was Dorothy Uffner, Lebanon, winning the $10 premium. Her apple pie was "The Apple Angels Pie."

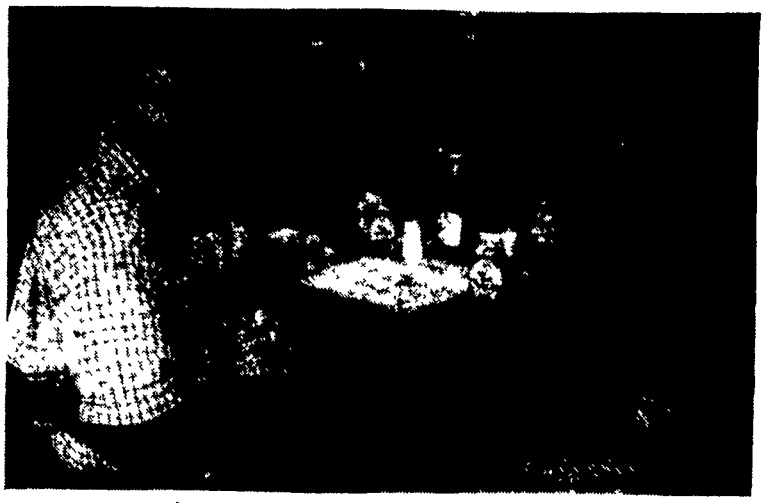
Faces At The Lebanon Area Fair



Bob and Beth Wise with children Elizabeth and Amy said that they make absolutely sure that they come every year to taste Kathryn's great food and admire the flower display.

Larry Groff, left, talks to Ken Rice, 12, and Torrey Hildebrandt, 13, who consider the New Holland 1630 Boomer "awesome."

Two-year-old Dalton Carl Kalbach of Lebanon dressed for the fair. He is the grandson of Carl Kalbach, a bull rider at the competition.

Tara Fisher, 4, finds grain the perfect past time at the Lebanon Area Fair. She is the daughter of Susan and Terry Fisher of Lebanon.

A Winning Experience Pays Off For Pie Contestant

CANDY APPLE PIE

6 cups thinly sliced, peeled baking apples
2 tablespoons lime juice
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
Pastry for double-crust pie (9 inches):
2 tablespoons butter
Topping:
¼ cup butter
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons heavy cream
½ cup chopped pecans

In a large bowl, toss apples with lime juice. Combine dry ingredients; add to the apples and toss lightly. Place bottom pastry in a 9-inch pie plate; fill with apple mixture. Dot with butter. Cover with top crust. Flute edges high; cut steam vents. Bake at 400 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Meanwhile, for topping, melt butter in a small saucepan. Stir in brown sugar and cream.

Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in pecans. Pour over top crust. Return to the oven for 3-4 minutes or until bubbly. Serve warm. Yields 8 servings.

Farmer Talks About Need For Safety From First-Hand Experience

BILL TINDALL
Lawrence Co.
Correspondent

NEW WILMINGTON (Lawrence Co.) — Ray Sleppy, a veteran loan officer with more than 13 years experience writing loans for the Indiana County office of Penn West Farm Credit, knows that a person's life can undergo dramatic changes in a split second. Worse yet, it can be snuffed out just as quickly.

While working with Farm Credit during the day and raising 200 head of veal calves on the side at his home at Laurel Run Farms, it wasn't unusual for Sleppy to begin daily chores at 4:30 a.m. and not turn in for the evening until 9:00 p.m., or whenever it became too dark to see for outside work. However, that all changed on the evening of May 21, 1993 when he decided to dig one last post hole with a digger attached to a three-point hitch on his JD 3020.

His wife, who had been working alongside him all evening, had just returned to the house. When the auger would not sink into the ground, Sleppy leaned some of his weight to push it in, not an unusual way to get a stubborn hole started. What happened next — partly coincidence, some carelessness, but all accident led to an event that would change his entire outlook and perspective on the very basics of life itself.

As Sleppy leaned toward the top of the auger, a metal reinforcement rod which had been used to replace a shear bolt caught a string from his hooded sweatshirt. He was pulled into the machine, spun around, and thrown out onto a township road some 10 feet away from the post hole digger.

Good fortune was with him when a passing neighbor, with some first-aid knowledge from his experience in mining, saw him, stopped, and immediately called 911. He was life flighted to Presbyterian Hospital's Trauma Center in Pittsburgh, more than an hour's drive away. While he knows that he was fortunate to be alive after such a traumatic accident, it was four months before he went back to work.

In a seven-day hospital stay, his vertebrae were wired together. The accident had resulted in a broken neck, a broken leg, crushed ribs, and his collar bone and shoulder blade torn away. He had sustained brush burns over 90% of his body. After the week stay in the hospital, Sleppy was sent home for healing while he waiting another 30 days to return for neck surgery.

Asked at the Annual Lawrence County Farm Safety Day is he had any advice for young people working on farms or operating farm equipment, Sleppy said; "Anyone operating farm equipment should remove loose strings from your clothing." He not only has concern over strings from hooded sweatshirts which caused his accident, but anything that can be caught by a moving piece of equipment.

As farm youth experienced for themselves while trying to pull a stick from a simulator corn picker head, human reactions are not quick enough to beat a piece of farm equipment running off a power-take-off. It simply can't be done.

Sleppy also recommended having someone else on the tractor. He said, "The accident I was involved in happened so quickly. I felt a tug on my sweatshirt and my next recollection was waking up in the hospital." Even though accidents happen quickly, a second person can disengage equipment and either help or go immediately for assistance.

The four-quarter amputee still works his loan officer job at Penn West Farm Credit and continues to raise veal calves on his 100-acre farm in Indiana County. However, he now appreciates the depth and beauty that life has to offer and cherishes every moment he has to be with his wife and children. He also knows, first-hand, the importance of farm safety and takes precautions in whatever chores need to be done.

Ray Sleppy, a four-quarter amputee and a keynote speaker at the Lawrence County Extension's Farm Safety Day, poses in front of an overturned tractor and fire fighting equipment, part of the day's props to demonstrate proper farm safety.

Benefit To Be Held For Scleroderma Victim

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — Del Stoltzfus, 42-year-old, wife and mother of five children, from Intercourse, is diagnoesd with the life-threatening disease known as Scleroderma. She has recently been accepted on the list of recipients for a lung transplant at The University of Pittsburgh Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The cost of such an illness from medication, transportation, doctor and hospital bills has become overwhelming. A fundraiser will help make it possible for Del to have this lung transplant and any further treatment.

Show your support for Del, by coming out to a pork barbecue/craft and bake sale to be held Saturday, August 16, at 9 a.m.

The event is located along Route 340, approximately ½ mile west of Intercourse.

All proceeds benefit the Del Stoltzfus Benefit Fund.

For those who would like to send a monetary contribution to support Del's transplant and any ongoing medical expenses, send your contribution to The Del Stoltzfus Benefit Fund, c/o Farmers First Bank, Route 340, Intercourse, PA 17543.

For more information you can contact Rachel at (717) 354-5954 or Nissa at (717) 768-8175.

'Supreme' Earns Breeding Sheep Honors

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — "Supreme," a Southdown ewe clinched the supreme champion breeding sheep honors on Monday evening at the Lebanon Area Fair. The ewe was bred and owned by Kyle Fleener of Robesonia, whose Southdowns placed first in ram, spring, ewe, yearling, and aged ewe classes. Kyle also showed the reserve champion in the Hampshire division.

Thirteen-year-old Kyle raises three Hampshires and about 25 Southdowns on Blu-Acre Farms. Kyle is the son of Tim and Sarah Fleener.

It was the third year, although not consecutive, that Kyle showed the supreme champion breeding sheep.

Ron Miller of Wey Farms said that it's difficult enough to judge breeds in competition with each other, "but it gets even worse when we have rams against ewes. What it gets down to is the judge's preference."

In Corriedale competition, Laura Martin showed the champion with her yearling ewe and her brother Darrell took the reserve honors with his spring ewe lamb. The siblings are the children of Aaron and LuAnn Martin of Annville where they raise 12 Corriedales.

Ann Leed, 15, showed a fall ewe lamb that went on to claim the Dorset grand champion title. One of Ann's 25 Dorsets that she raises on the family's Deep Run Sheep Farm also took reserve honors. Ann is the daughter of Bob and Nancy Leed of Myerstown.

Margeaux Firestine, 12, showed a yearling to claim the grand champion Hampshire title. Margeaux and his sister Morgan, 11, raise Corriedales and Hampshires on Map Farm in Womelsdorf, owned by their parents, Michael and Martene.

Tisha Ebling wrapped up the Montadale championship with wins in ram, spring ewe, and yearling divisions. Tisha, 19, attends Penn State University. The daughter of Warren and Jane Ebling raises 20 Montadale sheep on her parents, farm in Newmanstown.

A black and white Jacobs ram lamb shown by Cassie Schaeffer was pronounced champion of that breed. Cassie is the daughter of Paul and Tracy Schaeffer of Lebanon.

MAMMA Works To Improve Milk Quality In Schools

TOWSON, Md. — To combat the age-old dilemma of warm milk in school, the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association (MAMMA) has developed a program to assure milk temperature and increase milk sales in Mid-Atlantic schools. The newly-developed School Milk Quality Assurance Program involves providing resources to school cafeterias for milk cooling equipment improvements.

Warm, off-flavor milk translates into lost milk sales, both at school and on the retail level. Because of inadequate cooling equipment, many school cafeterias are not able to keep milk at temperatures necessary to assure milk quality. In just 20 minutes of temperatures above 40 degrees Fahrenheit, milk is left with an unappealing taste. For school-age children, taste is everything. If these children think milk at school tastes bad, they are less likely to try it at home.

Thanks to John Harduby, Jackson, N.J., and to Stuart Smeltz, Schuylkill Haven, for writing that the named has been changed to Peoples Security Insurance (a Providian Company). According to Smeltz the company has offices located in numerous cities, but, he writes, the home office is P.O. Box 61, Durham, N.C. 27702-0061. Harduby writes that the address is Mellon Bank Building, 8 W. Market St. Suite 950, Wilkes Barre, PA 18701-1801.

ANSWER — Mike Cannon's old wooden barn in Oreland is beseiged by carpenter bees. Viki Heonee, Aspers, writes that she had the same problem and found help through an article written by George Hurd, Penn State multi-county extension agent in the Adams County office. Here is a condensed version. Contact your county Penn State Extension office for more help.

The most effective deterrent to carpenter bees are well painted, finshed structures. Nail holes or exposed saw cuts are attractive starting points for tunnels especially when not pained or treated.

If tunnels are evident, treatement with an insecticide and sealing of the tunnel is recommended. Wasp, hornet, and bee aerosols are effective. Apply the aerosol material into the tunnel entrances and along exposed surfaces. A day or two after insecticide application, close the tunnel with a deep plug of putty or calking compound. If insecticides are not used and the tunnels are simply plugged, carpenter bees trapped inside can make new openings. Apply insecticides after dark to avoid the possibility of being stung by female carpenter bees. As with any insecticide, it is important to read the entire label and follow application instructions.

Where past infestations have occurred, preventative application of aerosol prior to spring may help to insure tunnels are not restarted.

Thanks to Elizabeth Bowers, Myersville, Md., for recommending the following preventative measure for carpenter ants: Woodguard, 12k Biosciences, 6075 Poplar Ave. Suite 306, Memphis, TN 38119. Phone (901) 683-9464.

Also, thanks to Kitty Ernst, Honey Grove, who wrote that they had carpenter bee problems until they sprayed Sevin in liquid form into and around the holes. They then put a preservative on the wood and have not had problems since then.

ANSWER — Thanks to Vaughn Moore for sending Evan Weidman, Westfield, the following answer: American Guernsey Association, 7614 Slate Ridge Blvd. P.O. Box 666, Reynoldsville, Ohio 43068. Phone (614) 864-2409.

MAMMA Works

mately 40 percent of girls ages 6 to 11 said that milk at school tastes bad. 35 percent of boys ages 9 to 12 said they would drink more milk if milk served at school was colder.

Over the past several years, MAMMA has partnered with many Mid-Atlantic schools to successfully change attitudes and increase milk consumption of school-age children. The School Milk Quality Assurance Program (SMQAP) is MAMMA's newest effort aimed at these children, designed to correct the underlying problem of warm, off-flavor milk.

During the 1997-98 school year, twenty-eight schools will receive grants from MAMMA to implement one of three cooler equipment upgrades. These three options include an ice caddy, an insulated cooler curtain, and an upgrade to a forced-air serving-line cooler. By improving existing cooler equipment, MAMMA will improve the quality of milk currently sold in the cafeteria. This would translate into less milk wastage and more students preferring milk both at school and at home.

After all equipment is placed in the schools, MAMMA will continue to monitor milk sales, breakfast counts, students preferences, and milk wastage to determine if the School Milk Quality Assurance program has effectictively improved milk quality. Based on results from the first twenty-eight schools, MAMMA hopes to expand this program into more schools in future years.

The first options from which the schools can select is the ice caddy. This durable container is an insulated, transportable storage area, which holds ice to keep milk cold while serving breakfast and lunch. This option is ideal for those schools that do not have serving-line schools. In a recent survey conducted by MAMMA, nearly 40 of the 100 participating schools did not have a basic serving-line cooler.

The insulated cooler curtain is a heavy-duty vinyl curtain that fits over the opening of the serving-line cooler. When the standard drop-front, cold-wall cooler is open, cold air escapes from the cooler, causing the temperature to rise. The curtain's clear vinyl stripping keeps the cold air from slipping away during serving periods, while still allowing children easy access to the milk.

The third option — an upgrade to a forced air cooler — is idea for those schools with funds allocated to purchase a new serving-line cooler. Cold air circulates around the milk, keeping it cold and fresh. The grant covers the additional cost of the forced-air cooler over a normal serving-line cooler.

Selling Food For Fun And Profit: Doing It Safely

Do you belong to a non-profit group that prepares and sells food to raise funds? Many organizations operate some type of food stand for fun and profit. If safe food handling practices are not applied at these events, the risk of food-borne illness increases. However almost all food-borne illness could be prevented by following safe food handling practices.

If your group sells food at a public site such as carnivals, fairs, animals shows, craft shows, festivals, public sales, reunions, and so forth, you may need a temporary license. In Pennsylvania if the stand operates more than two consecutive days an eating and drinking license may be needed if serving potentially hazardous foods like hotdogs, hamburgers, barbecue, other perishable foods. In Pennsylvania, contact the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture at (717) 787-4315 for more information on license and other regulations.

Food-borne illness affects an estimated 24 million to 81 million Americans each year. Food-borne illness occurs when food is contaminated with bacteria and the bacteria grows to large numbers. This happens when food is kept at unsafe temperatures — between 40 degrees F. and 140 degrees F.

Here is a checklist to help you determine if you have everything you need to operate a safe and clean temporary food service operation.

For sanitizing surfaces, you need:
- A bucket of soapy water
- A bucket of clean water
- A spray bottle with a mixture of chlorine bleach and water
- Paper towels

For handwashing, you need:
- Hand soap (preferably liquid)
- Paper towels
- A handwashing sink

OR
- A large container with a spigot filled with warm water and a container to catch wastewater

Cups, dishes and napkins are:
- Stored in containers
- Covered and at least 6 inches off the ground

Food and supplies are:
- Prepared on site or in a licensed kitchen

(If you are required to have a temporary food service license, your local health department must be notified of where and when food will be prepared if made off site.)
- Covered with plastic wrap or foil, or stored in lidded containers
- Stored off the ground

Trash containers are:
- Plastic or metal containers with bag liners and covers
- Emptied frequently

If you need a temporary food service license:
- Post it
- Serve only the foods listed on the license

For temperature control, you need:
- A food thermometer with a temperature range of 0 to 220 degrees F

Equipment to keep food cold:
- An ice chest with a drain and lots of commercially prepared ice

OR
- A refrigerator

Equipment to keep food hot:
- Camping stove
- Propane gas grill
- Sternco with windbreak
- Charcoal grill

Food handlers should be:
- Healthy and free of cuts/sores on hands
- Wearing clean plastic gloves to handle food that will not be cooked
- Wearing clean clothing
- Wearing hair pulled back
- Not smoking while handling food
- Washing hands frequently for at least 20 seconds after:

-Using the bathroom
-After handling raw foods such as meat, fish and poultry
-After picking up items off the ground

JOHN DEERE PTO FORAGE HARVESTERS

No other forage harvester gives you uniform, first-class forage – and still delivers consistent, money-saving performance – like a John Deere Powr-Mizer™ Forage Harvester.

High quality starts with better crop control... The upper rear feedroll on a Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester pivots along the cutterhead radius for controlled feeding. The crop is metered evenly, regardless of volume, for a uniform length of cut.

...while the savings keep on coming. Save when replacing a damaged knife. The patented Dura-Drum™ cutterhead (right) features rows of segmented knives on a fully enclosed drum. These knives cost just $13.42* each, compared to $76.32* for a full-width knife. Plus, you'll save time. Segmented knives are easier to replace – simply loosen three bolts, switch knives, and retighten.

Savings continue with a choice of fan speeds. In hard-to-blow crops, such as haylage, run the fan at 1,000 rpm for sure delivery. But in corn and other easier-to-blow crops, run the fan at 722 rpm to save on power and fuel.

Get the consistent cut – and consistent savings – only a John Deere Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester can provide. See your John Deere dealer today.

The exclusive Dura-Drum cutterhead is fully enclosed. It can't fill with silage like cage-type designs. That means cut crop doesn't get recut, making the most of all your engine horsepower.

*Comparison based on manufacturer's suggested retail price for rotating knives used on a John Deere 3970 and its closest major competitor knives for other competitors were more costly

Grange Selects Ambassadors

HOWARD (Centre Co.) — No matter where you go or who you are, you are always brought back to your pals through the 'Magic of Friendship.'

The theme for the '97 Youth Camp, held at Camp Sylvan Hills in Centre County, lived up to its name as nearly 60 Grange Youth members reunited for a weekend of fun, fellowship, and discussion about Grange work.

A camp highlight is the annual crowning of the new male and female Youth Ambassadors. The 1997-98 Youth Ambassadors are Amy Irion of Mercer County and Mike Tau of Crawford County, who replace Jennifer Campbell and Brian Ebersole, the 1996-97 Youth Ambassadors.

Irion, 18, is a relative "newcomer" to the Grange, having only been a Granger for three years. Here enthusiasm and love for the Grange, however, makes it seem like she's been a member for many years. A member of Stony Point Grange #1694, she said it is a huge privilege to be named a Youth Ambassador.

"I've seen a lot of enthusiasm in other youth members and I use them as role models," Irion, the daughter of Robert and Nancy Irion, said.

Irion, who will attend Thiel College in Greenville this fall to study respiratory care, said she would like to be a State Grange officer after she graduates from college.

"I want to be involved in the Grange as much as I can," Irion said. "I feel like I've done a lot already, but I want to be involved in the Grange asmuch as I can and bring new ideas to the Grange."

Tau, the 18-year-old son of Chester and Michele Tau, is a member of Hayfield Grange #800, where he is the Youth Chairman. Tau said he loves going to Youth Camp and is excited about being the new male Youth Ambassador.

"I will get to travel, meet new people, tell others about the Grange and, hopefully, get new members to join," Tau said. "The future of the Grange looks good because people are getting involved and there is something for everyone in the Grange."

Tau will attend Pittsburgh Technical Institute and study computer drafting and design. Tau said he would like to advance his education even further and get an engineering degree.

During the coronation program, awards were given to Jennifer Cummins for having the high test sore for those under the age of 35; Dina Zug for overall high test score; and Willie Schlemmer received a savings bond from the Youth Corps as a first-time

Corn Maze To Benefit Church

Surrounded by tall green cornstalks, curious explorers will soon wander through a large Conestoga wagon topped with CONESTOGA letters just west of Morgantown along Route 23.

This unique corn maze is located in the Conestoga Valley next to Conestoga Mennonite Church, designed and constructed by Conestoga Mennonite members for the purpose of raising funds for their new church building.

Fifteen-year-old Kathy Mast, a member of the Conestoga MYF volunteered to design this original maze on the 10-acre lot that will in the future hold the new church building. With the help of a computer, Kathy designed this interesting maze opening Friday, August 1.

Glenn Stoltzfus, a neighboring farmer, donated the corn and cross-planted it several months ago. Gary Stoltzfus, chairman of the Corn Maze project, organized volunteers to pull and hoe the short cornstalks in June to form the paths.

Then it was time to wait for the corn to grow. In spite of very little rain and no irrigation, the corn did grow and now awaits young and old to enjoy venturing through the two-acre Conestoga wagon.

To make it more challenging, Jane Stoltzfus suggested posting nine stations throughout the maze with nine words forming a Scripture verse. Persons, young and old, who complete the maze will receive a prize designed and coordinated by Janet Peachey.

Needless to say, Conestoga members are excited about sponsoring this adventure and eagerly anticipate inviting hundreds of people to join in the fun of climbing through this large Conestoga wagon in Pennsylvania's Conestoga Valley.

Open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wednesdays through Saturdays every day in August (only Saturdays in September), the admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children under age 13).

A refreshment stand and children's activities will also be available most days with additional special events on some days.

Enjoy the challenge of exploring Conestoga's Corn Maze.

The annual volleyball tournament also took place with two male and three co-ed teams competing against each other. York-Adams Pomona Grange went home the winners in both the male and co-ed divisions.

First runners-up in the Youth Ambassador Court are: Tracy Mattern, Beaver County; and Adam Britcher, Perry County. Other court members included Lindsie Bennett, Perry County; Ashley Campbell, Perry County; Jennifer Davis, Berks County; Todd Lowe, Perry County; Nathan Campbell, Perry County; and Willie Schlemmer, Lawrence County.

LCI Unveils National Emergency Animal Health Response Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A newly developed national model for emergency animal health response was unveiled at the Livestock Conservation Institute's (LCI) 81st annual meeting.

Dr. Joseph Annelli, chief of emergency programs with the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), Veterinary Services, officially presented the model.

Addressing LCI meeting attendees, Annelli proposed a National Council on Animal Health Emergency Management Plan that would be a coordinating body for the integrated approach to emergency management. "We need to form strategic alliances," Annelli said.

The council of stakeholders would discuss priorities, establish roles and responsibilities for each party involved, conduct activities on all levels (national, regional and local), evaluate success and reestablish priorities and roles as necessary.

The plan is designed to be an integrated, coordinated, and flexible model in which each sector has responsibility to effectively deal with a potential or real emergency situation. According to Annelli, the program would be carried out much like that of FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency), which divides its task into four phases: prevention, preparedness, response, and recovery.

Annelli said that an integrated and flexible plan would expand resources and improve the quality of the effort. He also stressed the need for the industry to discuss potential problems before they hit. A panel of industry leaders addressed questions following Annelli's presentation. They related the need for a cooperative effort and to identify places where improvements can be made in responding to a real or potential emergency.

The model was developed by APHIS, the Animal Agriculture Coalition and the United States Animal Health Association throughout the past year to address the country's critical need for a response plan in case of a foreign animal disease outbreak.

The evening's program was sponsored by the Ohio Department of Agriculture and Ohio commodity groups at the ODA's new facilities in Reynoldsburg, Ohio. LCI, an educational, nonprofit organization, is the consensus building arm of the food animal industry.

A Success

MEDULLARY BONE PROVIDES STRENGTH TO LONG BONES AND CALCIUM FOR EGGSHELLS

Carol V. Gay, Prof.
Biochemistry And Molecular Biology And Poultry Science

Medullary bone is a form of bone present within the marrow cavity of some bones, most notably the long bones of egg-laying birds. This bone exists as a randomly organized three-dimensional meshwork. Marrow occupies the spaces within the meshwork.

It has been known for many years that medullary bone serves a vital function in laying hens — namely, it is a major storage site for the calcium needed for daily eggshell formation. This supply-and-demand system is a fine example of how beautifully integrated living creatures are. During the night, when most of the eggshell is formed, hens will be quiescent and will have digested food taken in during the day.

To meet the needs of eggshell formation, calcium is released from medullary bone. To achieve this, a portion of medullary bone is first destroyed and then reformed in a daily cycle. This constant turnover is the result of a collaboration of two populations of bone cells — ones that form bone and ones that take it away.

Research has shown that the latter cells adhere tightly to bone surfaces and then secrete acid and digestive enzymes onto the bone surface during the calcium release period. When sufficient calcium has been released, the digestive cells become inactive and move away. The bone forming cells then move in and replenish the thinned bones.

How this highly integrated process is controlled is only partially understood. One quest of researchers today is to identify the pieces of missing information in the control process. Acquisition of such new knowledge is expected to lead to discovering new ways to improve egg laying, for example, by selecting for hens with improved regulaton of the medullary bone cycle.

The location of medullary bone within marrow cavities is also interesting in terms of origins of the bone cells. The bone forming cells are derived from cells that first appear in early stage chick embryos, as limbs develop. Division of these types of cells provides a continuous supply of bone forming cells throughout life. The bone destroying cells, however, are derived by fusion of one class of white blood cells in the bone marrow. When calcium is needed for eggshell formation, the white blood cells fuse and gain the ability to dissolve away the medullary bone.

Another recently discovered role of medullary bone relates to its structure. Because this bone exists as a three dimensional meshwork, it provides strength to bones within which it resides.

Results of a recent study show a 50 percent increase in long bone strength when the marrow cavity is half occupied with medullary bone as compared to the same

Water Woes

I'm certain the topic on many fruits and vegetable growers minds at this point in time is water — particularly the lack of it this year.

Because of our current situation I'm going to discuss irrigation of fruit and vegetable crops this month.

If you have a limited capability to irrigate, then perhaps this information can help you decide which crop or crops should be watered first. If you are fortunate enough to be able to irrigate most or all of your crops, then you should be in for a good year. The sunny weather should result in plenty of sweet melons and peaches and the dry conditions will reduce the incidences of fungal diseases.

Vegetables

The vegetables you harvest from the field are 80 to 95 percent water. As a result, a shortage of water will result in reduced yields and lower quality. You are also losing money if you sell your vegetables by weight! This is why it is almost a requirement to be able to irrigate your vegetables during dry conditions in order to maintain the highest possible quality of your crops.

A shortage of water early in crop development may result in a delay in harvest date and reduced total yields. A water shortage later in crop development will result in reduced produce quality but not necessarily a reduction in total yields. Most vegetable crops are shallow-rooted and even a few days of water stress can reduce yields. Other defects resulting from a water shortage including toughness, poor tip fill, strong flavor, cracking, and blossom-end rot.

Many growers, like home gardeners, put off watering because "it will rain tomorrow." This year that hoped-for rain event has not occurred and many vegetable fields are probably suffering from water stress. If you have a limited ability to irrigate, it is important that you do a good job of watering on those fields which are irrigated rather than a poor job of watering your total acreage.

Soil moisture needs of vegetables vary with the type of vegetable and the stage of crop development. Soil type also plays a role here, with some soils being better at holding moisture for crop growth than others.

Your experiences on your own farm will help you gather this type of information. Vegetables can require up to 1½ inches of water per week during hot periods when the plants spread 12 inches or more! The required amount of water should be applied at a rate that will allow it to be absorbed into the soil rather than run off. Maximum irrigation rates are 0.40 inch per hour for sandy soils, 0.30 inch per hour for loamy soils, and 0.20 inch per hour for clay soils.

There are certain 'critical' periods in the development of different vegetable crops when a sufficient amount of water needs to be in the soil to produce maximum crop quality. Table 1 lists several of the more important vegetable crops in Lancaster County with their critical moisture period.

Table 1. Critical moisture periods for several vegetable crops grown in Lancaster County.

Crop	Critical Moisture Period
Cantaloupe	Flowering and fruit development
Peppers	Transplanting, flowering up to ½ inch fruit
Potatoes	After flowering
Pumpkin	Fruiting
Summer Squash	Fruit Sizing
Sweet Corn	Silking
Tomato	Fruit growth
Watermelon	Fruit expansion

A steady supply of water to all vegetable crops during their critical moisture periods will result in maximum production of high quality produce. You should be constantly monitoring the moisture levels in your soils during crop development so that you can apply water as soon as it is needed.

Devices such as tensiometers will tell you the water status of the soil at the root zone of the plants and give you sufficient warning of coming water shortages. Observing your fields frequently will also be helpful but often conditions can change rapidly in the field and you might have some plants with water stress before you can apply the needed water. Water management in vegetable production is a skill that can take some time to develop. Start now to develop this expertise, or further refine your knowledge in water management in order to be most successful in vegetable production.

Fruit

Proper water management is also important in the production of fruit crops. Just like vegetables, harvested fruit are mostly water. Although many growers are successful without irrigation systems, the ability to supply additional water to your trees could result in greater yields and improved crop quality in some seasons. Irrigation is also critical to the successful establishment of a new orchard during a drought. Poor tree establishment could haunt you for years to come!

Drip or trickle irrigation systems are the most efficient methods of irrigating trees, especially in areas such as Lancaster County where the pumping capacity of wells can vary greatly. The system can be tailored to the available capacity of your well and makes efficient use of the water you apply.

Approximately ¼ of the root zone of a tree should be wetted during irrigaiton with a drip system. The area wetted by an individual emitter will vary with soil type so the number of emitters per tree will vary from orchard to orchard and also with tree age. Older trees may require the use of microsprinklers rather than the traditional spot emitters. The amount of water required by a tree will naturally vary with tree size and weather conditions as well as the stage of fruit development.

Generally, the critical moisture period for fruit trees is during fruit growth, especially during final sizing of the fruit. Establishment of a new orchard would also result in a "critical" moisture period of the entire first year!

If you choose to install an irrigation system, be sure it will meet the future water needs of your orchard as well as the current requirements.

Farm Credit, Dairy Vets Partnering

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Farm Credit has joined forces with veterinarians to promote dairy herd health and profitability. The Dairy Production Medicine (DPM) Certificate Program is a three-year course for dairy veterinarians to prepare them to meet the needs of today's growing, more complex dairies.

"Herd health and production medicine are the answers to keeping dairy herds healthy and profitable," said Dr. Dale Moore, Penn State extension veterinarian and coordinator of the Dairy Production Medicine Certificate Program.

The goal of the DPM program is to go beyond treating sick animals and focus on the client's bottom line. "We want to think in terms of what economic impact our treatments and recommendations will have on the business," said Moore. Bob Taylor, dairy credit specialist with PennWest Farm Credit, contacted Moore and offered to help modify the curriculum to include an integration of economic issues into the training.

Farm Credit was quick to see the value of this program to Pennsylvania dairy producers as they struggle to find ways to remain profitable. Many producers have chosen to expand their herds and this has meant learning to manage differently if they are to be successful. Having access to a veterinarian, a lender and other ag professionals that understand these challenges and are willing to help the producer work through them is a real asset.

To help participants focus more on the economic impact of their recommendations, credit officers from each of Pennsylvania's four Farm Credit Associations are participating in several of the classes interacting with veterinarians in their group discussions and case studies. This interaction has heightened the awareness of both credit officers and veterinarians to the benefits of working together to maximize their value of clients.

Commerical Loan Officer Bonnie Keil of Northeastern Farm Credit commented, "Interaction with the veterinarians has made me aware of the challenges facing veterinarians and the benefits to my customers of having an ag professional support team all focused on the same critical success factors."

Environmental Handbook For Fertilizer, Agrichemical Dealers Available

SMOKETOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Protecting the environment is an integral part of doing business today. Society expects it and it is required by law in many cases.

The situation is no different for fertilizer and agrichemical businesses. Fertilizer and agrichemical dealers of the future will be just as aggressive in managing their facilities to protect the environment as they have been in meeting their customers' product needs.

Since the late 1980s, the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) has placed top priority on research and demonstration programs on environmental technologies and practices needed to comply with environmental regulations.

TVA recently released a second edition of the Environmental Handbook for Fertilizer and Agrichemical Dealers. First published in 1991, the handbook is an example of TVA's commitment to the industry and the environment. The handbook can help the nation's retail dealers effectively cope with current and upcoming environmental laws and regulations while preserving their economic viability. It provides a single source of practical and reliable environmentally related information.

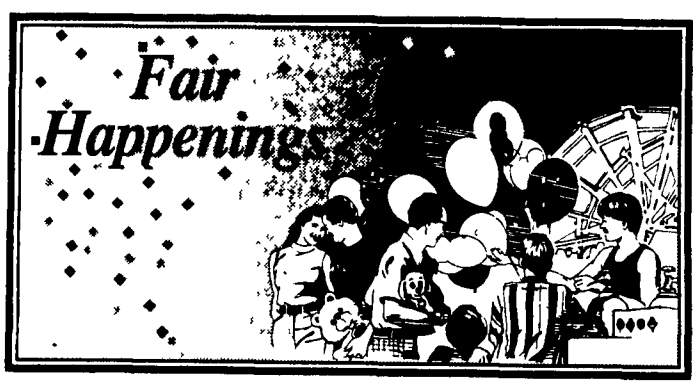
Protecting surface and groundwater from nutrient and pesticide losses from the facility is fast becoming a key environmental goal of fertilizer and agrichemical dealers. The purpose of this handbook is to help dealers identify their role in environmental protection and to provide practical guidance in determining what to do.

The handbook is designed to be a concise source of information on identifying and understanding environmentally related laws and regulations affecting dealerships, assessing the environmental performance of a facility, identifying opportunities for improvement, and developing and implementing plans for both compliance and environmental liability protection. It contains more than 250 pages of current information about the environmental issues of most concern to fertilizer and agrichemical dealers.

A helpful appendix contains emergency hotline information, addresses and phone numbers of state and federal agencies and industry organizations, the ACE Environmental Checklist to help dealers assess the environmental status of their facility, and results of the Pollution Prevention Model Site Demonstration Program illustrating exemplary environmental stewardship from TVA's award-winning national pollution prevention program.

The Pequea-Mill Creek Project has a copy of the Environmental Handbook for Fertilizer and Agrichemical Dealers available for loan. Fertilizer and agrichemical dealers and other interested parties should contact Jerry Martin, (717) 396-9423 for details.

The Environmental Handbook for Fertilizer and Agrichemical Dealers, Second Edition is a comprehensive and understandable source of information that will help fertilizer and agrichemical dealers survive and prosper in the years ahead.



Ag Promotion Day

You are invited to Ag Promotion Day at the Tioga County Fair in Whitneyville, just off Rt. 6 near Wellsboro.

Agriculture is the number one industry for both Tioga County and the state of Pennsylvania. Ag displays from all commodities grown in Tioga County will be set up in the Main Building from 2 p.m. until 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 6.

For more information, contact Michelle Sepiol at (607) 458-5795.

Harrisburg Grange Fair

The first annual Harrisburg Grange Fair will be presented Saturday, Aug. 23 on the outdoor plaza of the Broad Street Market, Third and Verbeke Streets, Harrisburg.

The public is invited free of charge. Food and specialty items will be available for purchase. All entries will remain on display until 4 p.m., and cash prizes will be awarded in all categories. Anyone may enter, regardless of place of residence, and all ages are eligible. For entry forms and guidelines, contact Judy White at the Grange office, at (717) 234-5001.

bones in non-laying birds which lack medullary bone.

Medullary bone is similiar in structure and composition to the bony meshwork in humans called trabecular bone. The latter is present within the ends of human long bone, ribs, and vertebrae. Like medullary bone, trabecular bone provides additional strength and is a storage site that provides calcium for daily needs. The integrated system of control between bone forming and bone resorbing cells in medullary bone is likely to resemble, perhaps closely, the control system in human trabecular bone. Therefore, complete understanding of the medullary bone cycle may provide insight into learning how to maintain human trabecular bone as well as to help improve egg production in chickens.

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

William Kitsch

John Horodnick

Pennfield Hires Feed Salesmen

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Pennfield Feeds, a Lancaster County dairy feed manufacturing company, has announced the addition of two dairy feed salesmen.

William Kitsch joined the feed marketing dairy sales force in May 1997. He is a graduate of Delaware Valley College with a bachelor's degree in agribusiness. His sales area centers on Berks County. Kitsch was previously employed with Merrill Lynch Client Group, Doylestown, assisting as a financial consultant with marketing of financial services to prospective clients.

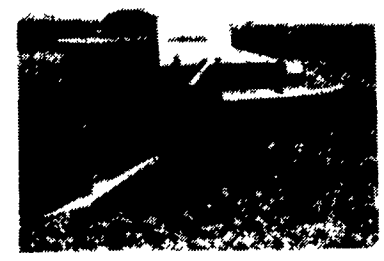
John Horodnick started with Pennfield feed marketing in June 1997. A graduate of Oklahoma State University with a bachelor's degree in animal science production, Horodnick also has an associate's degree in animal science from the State University of New York College of Agriculture and Technology. His territory will be in Franklin County.

Gleaner Develops New Features To Improve Harvesting

ATLANTA, Ga. — For 1997, Gleaner introduces new product improvements that will help producers harvest crops more efficiently.

For increased performance and reliability, Gleaner engineeers have enhanced the threshing and separating system, added new optional features, and improved the serviceability of the Gleaner "R" Series combines.

For added crop versatility, Gleaner has added a pivoting chrome separator grate in the lower portion of the cage assembly. The new chrome separator grate allows the operator to make ¼-inch incremental adjustments to the grate. These adjustments improve separating performance and reduce rotor loss in extreme field conditions. A visual scale on the processor indicates the incremental changes. Through this product enhancement, Gleaner combines provide crop versatility without the need to change concaves or grates from one crop to another. The separator grate has a 120 degree wrap, 14 bars, and 32 wires.



The 1997 Gleaner combines feature an enhanced threshing and separating system and new optional features for increased performance and reliability.

An optional stone trap is available for all Gleaner "R" series combines. The stone trap is a field installed alternative to the Gleaner thresher concave door. Designed to collect rocks and prevent them from entering the cylinder and concave area, the stone trap door has been added to the concave door. This added feature protects the combine from damage caused by rocks and field debris entering the cylinder and concave area. In turn, the stone trap can prevent costly repairs that might occur when working in rough field conditions. The operator can remove the stone trap and operate the thresher concave as originally designed when working in more suitable field conditions.

To save time and effort, the lower access or leaf screen doors on the Gleaner combines now have handles. This provides the operator with a more convenient method of opening and closing the doors.

Campaign Helps Farmers Tell Story

MOLINE, Ill. — Nearly 100 million Americans have been informed about the important contributions farmers and agribusinesses have made to enhance the quality of life for U.S. consumers through a series of newspaper features developed by Deere & Company.

Begun in June 1995, the Farm Focus campaign consists of six illustrated articles. Three articles have been distributed with three more scheduled for release during 1997. Topics have included the important medical and pharmaceutical products produced from hogs, how agricultural producers work to protect water quality, and the productivity of the American farmer. Future articles will focus on products manufactured from corn and soybeans and agriculture's impact on the U.S. economy.

The three Farm Focus articles released to date appeared 4,292 times in newspapers throughout the country. Articles appeared in each of the top 25 markets in the United States, including metropolitan papers in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, San Francisco, Philadelphia, and Boston. Farm Focus has appeared in 44 of the 50 states.

Deere & Company initiated the program as a result of research that showed concern among farmers about consumer perceptions of agriculture. "This program offers an opportunity to increase public awareness of the contributions agriculture is making toward improving the standard of living and quality of life for U.S. consumers," said Al Higley, manager of agricultural public relations at Deere & Company. "There are many positive stories in agriculture today that need to be told."

Fork Frame Redesigned

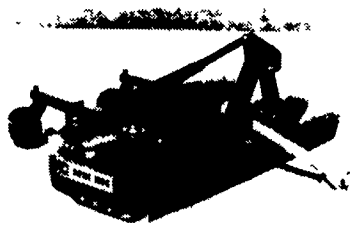
FARGO, N.D. — Melroe Company offers Bobcat® pallet forks to fit skid-steer loaders in the 500 through 800 size classes.

The pallet fork frame for model 553 through 873 Bobcat loaders has been redesigned to provide better visibility to pallet fork teeth.

The upper screen portion has been extended down the entire back of the frame, and the square holes in the screen have been doubled in size to allow more viewing area. In addition, the screen is made from thicker material, providing improved durability over the life of the frame.

Melroe Company offers Bobcat® pallet forks to fit skid-steer loaders in the 500 through 800 size classes.

8-Foot Cutter Ideal For Road Shoulders, Orchards



Tight places such as roadside shoulders and orchards are no problem for an 8-ft. wide rotary cutter from Bush Hog.

SELMA, Ala. — Tight places such as roadside shoulders and orchards are no problem for an 8-ft. wide rotary cutter from Bush Hog. It is available in pull, lift, and semimount versions.

The semimount version is available with a swing hitch that provides a 13-inch offset. The unique swing hitch makes the cutter ideal for cutting old orchards with wide spacing and new orchards with narrow spacing.

Robert O. Moore, Bush Hog's vice president of sales, said that the cutter offers features that are important to mowing contractors and orchard operators.

"It is a rugged machine designed for use with 50 HP and above tractors," he said. "The strength of the design and construction is obvious as you examine the large strongbacks and frame members. Four-by-six-inch strongbacks connect the front and rear frame members and connect directly with the intersecting gearbox channel."

Moore said the deck is 10-gauge steel. Sidebands are ¼-inch thick and 10 inches deep. Skids are 3 inches wide and 22 inches long for a wide footprint that prevents digging in. Blade tip speed is 16,300 feet per minutre.

Lift and semi-mount units have twin beam tail wheels. They are available with optional rubber cushion axles that absorb shock loads near the rear wheels. Rubber cushion axles are standard on the pull version.

Hay Tools Provide Economical Harvest

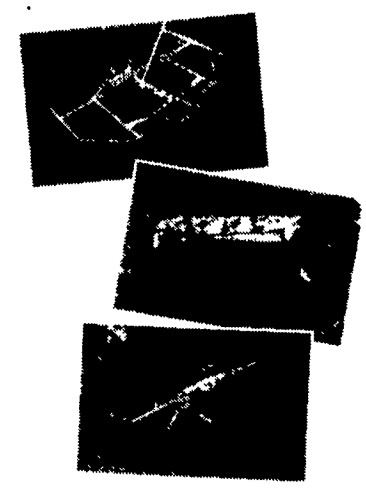
COLUMBUS, Ind. — Claas of America introduces the Claas Unifarm line of economical and reliable hay tools for harvesting cleanly and efficiently in virtually all field conditions.

Ideal for use on small to mid-size acreage farms, the Unifarm line fits all Category I and II tractors. The line includes the CD 210 disc mower, CW 440 and CW 300 tedders and CR 330 rotary rake.

Equipped with five cutting discs, the CD 210 disc mower cuts fast and evenly. It maintains a ground level mowing height and features hydraulic lift. Working width is 6 feet 10 inches.

The CW 440 and CW 300 tedders are equipped with double tines which turn and spread hay and forage crops gently and smoothly to reduce loss of crop. The CW 440 is a four-rotor tedder with a working width of 14 feet 5 inches and folds for transport. The CW 300 is a two-rotor tedder with a working width of 9 feet 10 inches.

The Unifarm CR 330 rotary rake works at high speeds and adjusts to uneven ground conditions to provide a quick, thorough harvest. The 330 rake has a 10-foot 10-inch working width which provides uniform, fluffy windrows.



The Claas Unifarm line of hay tools is ideal for use on small to mid-size acreage farms. The hay tools are economical and reliable for harvesting cleanly. Pictured from top to bottom are the CR 330 rotary rake, CD 210 disc mower, and CW 440 four-rotor tedder.

Herbicide Receives Supplemental Label For Tank Mix

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — DowElanco has received a supplemental label from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to tank-mix Broadstrike* + Dual® herbicide with Bicep II for weed control in corn.

The tank-mix of Broadstrike + Dual and Bicep II provides a strong line of defense against most than 50 tough broadleaf weeds and annual grasses, including velvetleaf, lambsquarters, smooth pigweed and yellow nutsedge. Plus, the herbicide combination offers excellent control of triazine-resistant varieties of lambsquarters and pigweeds.

The reduced application rates for Bicep II in this tank-mix also reduces the amount of atrazine applied by 60 percent. And, this new weed and grass control program reduces time and labor costs by applying all in one pass.

The Broadstrike + Dual and Bicep II herbicide program has three modes of application that help address farmers concerns about weed resistance: the mixture can be preplant surface applied, preplant incorporated, or applied preemergence the through spike stage of corn growth but before weed emergence.

Cattle Evaluation Workshop Aug. 20

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — It's time agin for the summer cattle evaluation workshop.

This annual event will be held Aug. 20 at New Holland Sales Stables.

The event is jointly sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension, The Pennsylvania Beef Council, an animal industry representative.

For 1997 the event will concentrate on beef quality assurance. A unique presentation utilizing a system of three life-size demonstration booths will address three important quality assurance issues. The program, developed in Alabama, will appear in Pennsylvania for the first time.

Hotspot Hunting Signup Underway

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is reminding farmers that the deadline for sign up in this year's "hotspot" deer hunt is Sept. 12.

Farmers suffering deer damage to crops who wish to enroll in the program should contact their regional Pennsylvania Game Commission office by that date.

The "hotspot" program, known officially as the Deer Damage Area Program, allows a hunter with an antlerless license for that county to harvest an antlerless deer on an enrolled farm during the regular firearms antlered deer or "buck" hunting season. This year's season runs from Dec. 1 to Dec. 13.

Farmers interested in the "hotspot" program will be visited by a wildlife conservation officer this fall and given the opportunity to enroll in one of the agency's public access programs. The farmers will be given green signs which will alert hunters that identified areas contain too many deer and are open for public hunting.

Hunters will be able to obtain listings of properties enrolled in the "hotspot" program by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to the regional office for the county in which the hunter holds an antlerless deer license.

Hotspot enrollment for two consecutive years is also a prerequisite for eligibility in the permit hunting program. The program allows off-season hunting of antlerless deer in deer depredation areas. Farmers in the program can permit hunting of one antlerless deer for every 10 acres of cultivated land during specified off-season times.

For more information about enrollment in the "hotspot hunt" or the deer depredation permit program, farmers should contact the Game Commission regional offices at the following toll-free numbers.

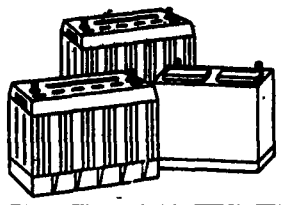
TRACTOR AND COMBINE BATTERIES



- Case MAGNA POWER™ batteries are built to withstand 30 hours of 5G vibration testing.
- Epoxy-anchored plates eliminate grid vibration, a common cause of internal short circuits and early failure.
- Computerized grids provide quicker response in both starting and recharging.

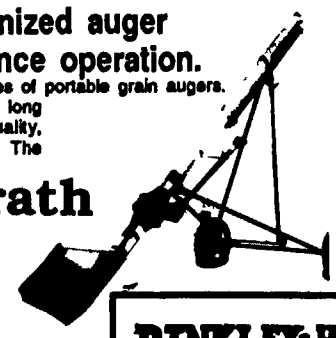
Your Source For Quality Grain Handling Equipment

A premium quality galvanized auger designed for low maintenance operation.

Mayrath introduces the all new "InLine Drive" series of portable grain augers. Mayrath has combined operational efficiency with long term dependability providing you with a high quality, GALVANIZED auger at a very affordable price. The revolutionary "InLine Drive" system minimizes the number of moving parts...greatly reducing costly downtime and maintenance in the future.

Mayrath
InLine Drive



DIAMETER	CAPACITY	LENGTHS
8"	3200 BPH	32', 42', 52', 62', 72'
10"	4500 BPH	32', 42', 52', 62', 72'

The unique "InLine Drive" design features an internally mounted gearbox inside of an expanded, bell shaped tube housing. Auger flighting is positioned to allow a high volume of unrestricted grain flow around the internal gearbox. A new intake design utilizes double flighting and a cupped intake guard to offer a high capacity, complete cleanout operation. A specially engineered hopper bolts directly to top of the intake guard, further enhancing the augers capacity.

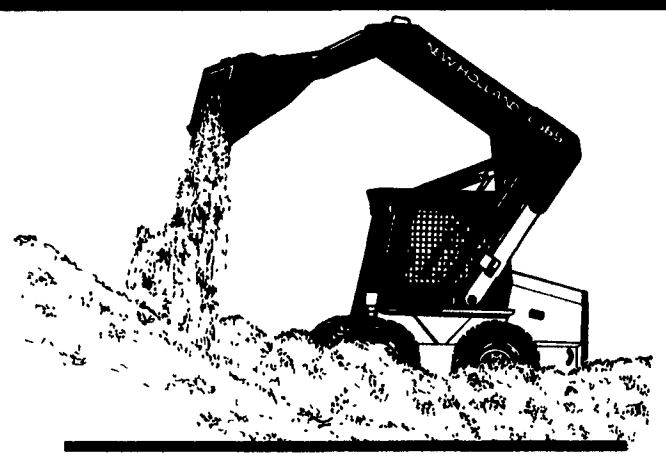
THE RELIABLE ONE



TOUGHER THAN THE REST

The New Holland Model L565 Super Boom™ skid-steer loader is tougher, more durable and more reliable than ever.

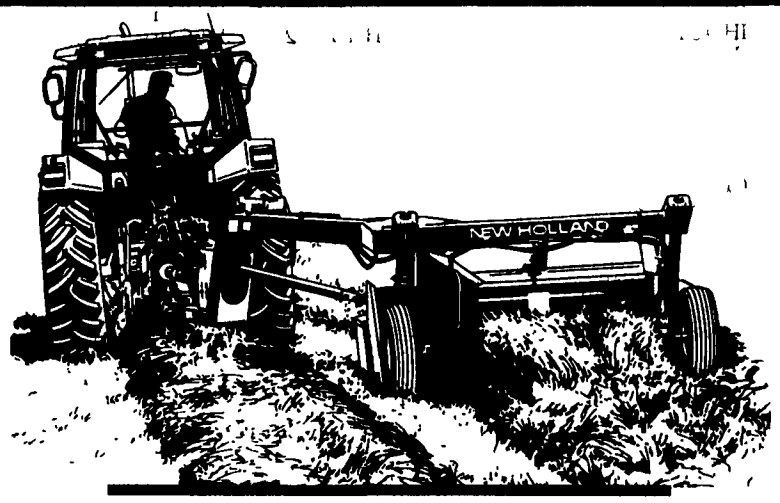
The "L565" offers a 40 horsepower diesel engine with an SAE load rating of a powerful 1,500 pounds.

The Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system makes it compatible with New Holland and competitive attachments. The strong boom design and massive loader pins make it more reliable. And the quick engine access makes it easier to service.

See what makes the Super Boom so tough.

NEW HOLLAND

TOUGH HAY?



KNOCK IT DOWN, FAST

The "1411" Discbine® disc mower-conditioner features eight discs spinning at 3,000 rpm to cut easily through your toughest conditions. Thick, tangled and wet crops are a breeze to cut. And, the tongue design lets you make over-square corners and operate the "1411" directly behind the tractor, so even field obstacles won't slow you down!

See the best today... the "1411" Discbine® disc mower-conditioner.

LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS
"P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders, LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 575 with a mixing capacity of 625 cubic ft.

The Large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

Only One Stands Alone in the Ring — — the New RD-2100
Here's why it's the champion silo unloader:
- New Polar Claw™ chain with aggressive cutters and claws for high-volume delivery. Ideal for frozen and hard-packed silage. Look for the new Polar White™ color.
- Big 9-foot (108 in.) ring flanges to the inside for added strength; reversible.
- Power cutter shaves silo wall clean.
- 1/4-inch steel lower blower band for long life.
- 4 swinging, adjustable, cupped paddles with stainless steel pins for easy startup and maximum delivery.
- Distributor available for improved feed packing when filling silo. A powered distributor can be added for big silos.
- Optional independent electric motor rotates unloader and distributor while filling.
- Automatic lowering available.
- Fits your 3-cable hexapod or tripod suspension.
- Update your RD-820 easily.
- Convenient financing from Patz Credit.

NOTHING WORKS LIKE A SILO

Sollenberger Silos Corp.

"HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding. So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

"PROTECT YOUR CORN FROM THE HEAT."

These farmers from Virginia "switched" to our poured concrete silo to store their shelled corn and said: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture corn ever." (Cave View Farm, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.)

Increase Cattle Gains!

TOX-O-WIK® Cattle Oiler and Face Fly Fighter
It keeps cattle comfortable year around and free of weight-robbing insects and disease. It's automatic, trouble-free and rugged. Plus it pays for itself in profits from increased weight gains.
Our special TOX-A-WIK Insecticide is compatible with the animals natural body oils, skin and hair and keeps them free of flies, lice, grubs, ticks, mange and pinkeye.
- Insecticide tank wick feeds automatically, no valves, jets or pumps to clog.
- Mineral feeder
- 1 to 4 applicators per unit.
- TOX-O-WIK insecticide is the only insecticide recommended for TOX-O-WIK Cattle Oilers.
- Dairy units also available.

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last
Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

CASH ADVANCE PROGRAM

Production Flexibility Contracts

If waiting for your Production Flexibility Contract payments is limiting your growth or holding you back on your plans, there is now a solution The CASH *NOW PURCHASE PROGRAM allows you to sell your future contract payments for cash dollars today The flexible nature of the program allows you to.

- Sell all or part of your contract payments depending on the amount of cash you need now. Since this is not a loan, no payments are due directly from you and the cash you receive now does not show up on your books as a loan.
- Repurchase any remaining future payments due, if your needs change later.
- Raise cash, typically within 30-40 days
- Sell payments on both owned and leased land operations
- Limit your primary responsibility to remaining in compliance with the Production Flexibility Contract Program
- Participate in a program that is deliberately designed to allow you full control of your operation This includes provisions for selling your land, dropping out of the program, buying more qualifying land, and more.

To obtain more information and a written price offer, you need to proceed as follows

- Contact us. We will send a one page pricing request form. Provide us payment information about your production flexibility contract on the PFC pricing request form. Since we can buy all or part of your contract payments, you need to specify the amount of capital you need now We will prepare our offer based on your figures.
- Upon acceptance of our offer, we will prepare contract documents for your signature
- Upon receipt of the signed contract documents from you, we will request any additional information needed and submit the necessary document to The Farm Service Agency for their acknowledgement
- Once The Farm Service Agency acknowledgement has been received and other conditions of closing have been met, the agreed upon funds are wired to your account

It's that simple... To inquire further, call Dick Croyle: toll free 1-888-687-8491 office 717-284-3151 - mobile 717-575-5337.

IN ALUMINUM BODIES
EBY BUILDS IT

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.
